MISSISSIPPI RIVER CLAIMS BOY VICTIM TODAY

KENNETH LARSON DROWNS WHILE IN SWIMMING

BATHING WITH THREE BOY FRIENDS NEAR THE PAPER MILL LAD BECAME EXHAUSTED AND WAS CARRIED INTO DEEP WATER

Brainerd lost one of its best younger generation this morning when the Mississippi claimed as its victim, Kenneth Larson, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Larson, 914 Bluff avenue, while he was in swimming with three boy companions. Kenneth was known to all for his manly young ways. He was an earnest indulgent in all clean sports and was interested in saving money he had earned himself. He was one of the Brainerd Dispatch's best newboys. From the salary he earned from carrying papers, each week he would regularly deposit money with the John M. Bye Clothing company in a fund he had started there.

Kenneth Larson, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Larson, 914 Bluff avenue, drowned this morning in the Mississippi river at 11 o'clock above the outlet of the new city sewer near the paper mill while in swimming with three of his youthful boy friends.

The body was recovered at 1:35 o'clock this afternoon after combined efforts were made by police officers, firemen, city officials, and citizens to locate the body by dragging for it.

At 10:30 o'clock this morning Kenneth, in company with three boy friends, Earl Shubert, Edward George and Joseph Wegelhofski, went swimming in the river on the sandbar on the north side of the river. After swimming for some time, Kenneth who was not a good swimmer, became tired and was carried out into deep water. An attempt was made by Earl Shubert and Edward George to rescue him and once they had hold of the boy but were forced to release their hold on him when Kenneth's weight began pulling them under.

When the alarm was raised a large number of willing citizens rushed to the scene of the tragic drowning and with grappling irons, drag nets and boats aided in the search for the body. The body was finally recovered at 1:35 o'clock this afternoon and taken to Whitney's undertaking parlors.

Kenneth was one of the Brainerd Dispatch's best newboys. He was a carrier on 8th, 9th and 10th streets. He was a member of the Methodist Sunday school and had this year graduated from the fourth to the fifth grade in school. He was well liked by the boys in the community and liked the water. He indulged in all the games with the boys and was known to most northsiders as "a real little man."

His school mates and little buddies stood in a group near the scene of the accident this morning watching the operations of the dragging of the river, talking in subdued words, relating incidents of Kenneth's life, of the good times they had playing together. Some were crying, and the hearts of all at the scene of the tragic drowning were sad.

Kenneth is survived by his parents and five brothers, Clayton, Raymond, Orris, Lawrence and Vernon, all of Brainerd.

Funeral arrangements have not been made yet.

FOUR ATTEMPTED TO BREAK JAIL

Indianapolis, July 17.—(UP)—One of four prisoners who made an unsuccessful attempt to break jail at Greencastle, Ind., had been identified as Edward Allison, alias "Shorty" Casey, wanted for the robbery of the post office at New Lisbon, Wis., it was announced today by W. C. Ela, post office inspector.

Two others of the quartet were identified as James Stephenson, alias Charles Hagener and Harry Gaddis, alias Robert McGregor, both escaped from the prison at Chester, Ill.

USES TORTURE TO PUNISH NATIVE

Washington, July 17.—(UP)—Dr. A. Haysmer, Seventh Day Adventist missionary to Korea, has been dismissed from his post by the Shanghai foreign mission headquarters for branding with acid a native boy who stole apples, the foreign mission board here announced.

Tornado Near Ashland, Wis., Kills Three People

WAVE LENGTHS VARY AS U. S. CONTROL CEASES

New York, July 17.—(UP)—Threats of injunctions were made by several broadcasting stations today because of the confusion caused by several stations in this area which have changed their wave lengths with the end of government control over radio.

With the failure of congress to pass control legislation at the last session the justice department made a ruling which left Commerce Secretary Hoover without jurisdiction over radio stations.

Six stations in this area, which had been confined to low wave lengths, have increased their range into the already crowded higher lengths. Interference has resulted as Hoover predicted when he said that chaos would ensue when stations were free to pick their own air lanes.

REFORMING OF OHIO CITY IS TO CONTINUE

DEATH OF PUBLISHER DON R. MELLETT, CANTON, O., NOT TO BE IN VAIN

HIS AGGRESSIVE ANTI-VICE CAMPAIGN TERMINATED BY ASSASSIN'S BULLETS

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Canton, O., July 17.—The task of reforming this Ohio city, attempted by Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, may be accomplished by his death.

The young publisher's aggressive anti-vice campaign was abruptly terminated yesterday by assassin's guns. He was ambushed in the back yard of his home by unidentified gunmen and died almost instantly from a bullet wound in the head.

Simple funeral rites will be conducted here today and the body sent to Indiana, original home of the Melletts, a famous newspaper family for burial.

Meanwhile state, county and local authorities were conducting what probably is the most energetic man hunt ever known in the state to capture the murderers. An $11,000 reward fund, which will be increased to $50,000, backs their efforts.

The theory that paid gunmen from another city killed Mellett was regarded as most tenable by officers. Canton's underworld had reason to hate the fearless reformer and sufficient connection with gangsters of neighboring cities to secure the service of killers, they pointed out.

Although Canton's bad lands are said to run to locally manufactured liquor, it is considered likely there is or has been some foreign traffic in narcotics, beer and alcohol, which would tend to establish connection in Chicago, Pittsburgh and elsewhere.

Developments of the investigation into reports that a large automobile bearing a Pennsylvania license, was often seen on the street near the Mellett home the day before the murder, were not revealed. Local authorities have adopted a policy of keeping their activities secret. Co-operation by state and possibly federal officers in the search for Mellett's slayers may carry into an investigation of conditions which made such a crime possible.

"We shall welcome efforts of any outside agency which will help bring the killers of Mellett to justice," Safety Director Earl Hexamer told the United Press. Hexamer is an appointee of Mayor S. M. Swarts, democrat, who succeeded Mayor C. C. Curtis, ousted two years ago by Governor Vic Donahey.

The latest political disturbance was created by the effort of Swarts to oust Chief of Police S. A. Lengle, who held office under Curtis' administration. Lengle was suspended but reinstated by the civil service commission.

Now legal action is pending to oust two members of the commission.

Mellett supported Swarts for election and again in his fight with Lengle whose $50,000 libel suit against the Daily News is pending. Members of Mellett's family openly expressed lack of confidence in Lengle after the murder.

HEARINGS ON CUTS IN FREIGHT RATES ON PRODUCE

TO BE RESUMED SOON BY I. C. C., MAY BENEFIT THE FARMERS

DECISION TO RESUME HEARINGS FOLLOWS DENIAL OF PETITION OF ROADS FOR INCREASE

Washington, July 17.—(UP)—Hearings regarding proposed cuts in western freight rates on farm products will be resumed soon by the Interstate Commerce Commission, it was learned today.

Decision to renew the hearings follows denial of a petition of western roads for a five per cent horizontal ratio increase.

The railroads made their demands for an increase under a plea that an emergency existed. The commission found the roads generally sound financially and now will consider revision of rates on farm products, with a view to relieving agricultural depression, as ordered in the Hoch-Smith resolution adopted by congress.

The increase request was consolidated with the general farm rates investigation because the same western interests that opposed the increase countered with demands for decreases under the Hoch-Smith resolution.

Indication that the commission will not grant the request for lower rates was seen today in its statement that evidence presented in the increase case had shown no proof upon which to base either increases or reductions.

HEAT RECORDS OF 25 YEARS NOW BROKEN

4 PERSONS DEAD IN MINNESOTA, SLIGHT RELIEF TO WAVE PROMISED

3 ARE DROWNED IN STATE SEEKING RELIEF FROM THE HEAT

St. Paul, July 17.—(UP)—With heat records of 25 years' standing shattered and four persons dead in Minnesota as a result, slight relief came to the northwest today.

Cooler weather succeeded the record breaking marks reached yesterday, but the weather bureau forecast was for warmer again Sunday.

Three persons were drowned in Minnesota yesterday while seeking relief and one man died of heart disease induced by heat.

The dead were:

Arthur Hegert, 13, of St. Paul, drowned in Lake Phalen here.

Walker, 25, of Maxwell Bay, drowned in Lake Minnetonka.

Howard Haag, 22, of Richfield, drowned in Lake Nokomis.

Arthur Pfiffer, 70, of Minneapolis, died of heart disease brought on by heat.

The thermometer rose to 102.3 degrees in St. Paul. The only higher temperature recorded in 56 years was on July 24, 1901, when the mercury reached 104. This mark was exceeded in other parts of the state. At Windom, the official reading was 104 and unofficial temperatures were as high as 110.

The highest temperature in the northwest was at Sioux Falls, S. D., which reports 105.5 at 5 P. M. yesterday.

ARGENTINE AVIATOR ARRIVES AT BRAZIL

Rio De Janeiro, July 17.—(UP)—Bernardo Dugan, the Argentine aviator, today arrived at Espirito Santo, Brazil, enroute by air from New York to Buenos Aires. Espirito is on the coast about 300 miles north of Buenos Aires.

KILLED WHEN HIS CAR STRUCK BY TRAIN

Alexandria, Minn., July 17.—(UP)—Bryl Reasoner, 21, was killed yesterday when his automobile was struck at a crossing near here by the special Columbia River Historical Expedition train of the Great Northern railroad.

WOMEN STORM PRISON AT WARSAW, POLICE DISPERSE MOB

Warsaw, July 17.—(UP)—In an attempt to liberate political prisoners, 599 communists, the majority of them women, stormed the Dziesna prison here. Thirty of the communists were arrested before police dispersed the mob.

VOTE THIEVING INVESTIGATION COMES TO HALT

WITNESSES REFUSE TO TESTIFY IN PROBE NOW CARRIED ON

14 JUDGES AND CLERKS SUBPOENAED WON'T SAY A WORD TO GRAND JURY

Chicago, July 17.—(UP)—Cook county's sweeping investigation of vote thieving in the last primary election has literally struck a stone wall because witnesses refuse to testify.

The first balk the grand jury has experienced since it began its investigation several weeks ago, occurred yesterday when 14 judges and clerks subpoenaed to testify, refused to say a word to the grand jury, unless they were granted immunity themselves. The witnesses stood on the law which prevents a man from being indicted by a grand jury if he has testified and has not signed an immunity waiver.

Judge Charles A. McDonald, who is superintending the investigation, said it was apparent that some one had either advised or warned the witnesses to take the stand they did.

It was rumored that the gag order may have come from the higher-ups following the indictment of 44 persons earlier in the day.

The consequence of the witnesses' refusal of the grand jury are to be determined.

POLICE GUARD HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL FROM ATTACK

Boston, Mass., July 17.—(UP)—Police guarded the Harvard medical school today following receipt of a bomb threat by officials of the institution.

"Something like the New Jersey explosion" might be expected soon, according to the anonymous letter. No reason for the threat was given and school authorities could not explain it. They regarded the letter as the work of a practical joker.

100 JAILED IN NARCOTIC RAIDS

Washington, July 17.—(UP)—One hundred persons were in jail here today as a result of narcotic raids on 15 homes late last night. Fourteen squads of federal agents gathered here from New York, Chicago, Baltimore and Boston, staged the raids, some of them within sight of the national capitol.

NEW FLOODS DAMAGE 40,000 ACRES IN SERBIA

Belgrade, July 17.—(UP)—Fifty-two persons are dead in new floods which have swept the Apatina and Nenasut districts following bursting of river dikes. The dikes were washed out when rivers rose due to a series of cloudbursts. New floods have spread over 40,000 acres of land in southern Serbia.

Berlin, July 17.—(UP)—Allgemeine Zeitung dispatches from Belgrade report that 40 persons were killed and 20 injured when floods destroyed part of the Montenegrin village of Rugovo.

Vienna, July 17.—(UP)—Unconfirmed dispatches from Belgrade report that a landslide caused by heavy rains has buried a passenger train near Sarajevo. It is reported that from 80 to 100 persons are believed lost.

YOUTH SHOT AND KILLED AFTER HOLDUP MADE

CHICAGO POLICE ARREST COMPANION IN HYDE PARK DISTRICT

2 WERE STUDENTS WHO HELD UP ANOTHER STUDENT AND CO-ED

Chicago, July 17.—(UP)—A 19 year old youth was shot and killed by police last night and his companion arrested after the two held up a University of Chicago coed and her student escort in Chicago's exclusive Hyde Park district.

The dead holdup man was identified as Bernard Carmichael of Milan, Mo. Papers in his pockets indicated that he also was a student at a local university. He was struck in the temple dying on the way to a hospital.

The two had robbed George Gray and Miss Laverne Lane, both University of Chicago students, of $14 and were walking nonchalantly down the street when a police automobile approached and Gray sounded the alarm.

When Policemen Leddy and Conlan commanded the pair to stop, they broke into a run and the shooting occurred.

Dexter C. Harrison, 24, Battle Creek, Mich., the other youth, was arrested later in a down town rooming house and made a full confession of his part in the hold-up of Miss Lane and Gray, police said.

MATHEW McNEIL BANDIT SUSPECT, HAS CONFESSED

POLICE SO STATE AFTER TAKING HIM FROM SUPERIOR TO MILWAUKEE

CLAIM HE WAS IN GANG RAIDING NORTHWESTERN NATIONAL BANK AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—(UP)—Mathew McNeil, arrested at Superior as a bandit suspect and brought here yesterday for questioning, has confessed, according to police, that he was one of the bandits who took part in the raid upon the Northwestern National Bank here December 8, 1924. While McNeil, according to police, gave all information regarding his connection with the robbery, he refused to name his associates in the raid.

McNeil, according to police, talked freely to investigators, among them being Assistant District Attorney George B. Skogmo, captain of detectives, Harry McCrory and other members of the police department.

He will be taken to the district attorney's office today where a stenographic report of his reported confession will be made which he had agreed to sign.

Police declared he will be arraigned probably on Monday or Tuesday.

ALICE RHINELANDER PROFESSES LOVE FOR HER YOUNG HUSBAND

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 17.—(UP)—Professing undying love for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, Alice, his wife, left her home here for Europe. She will sail from New York on the Majestic with her mother and a woman friend from Hartford, Conn., whose name was not disclosed.

Mrs. Rhinelander said their trip is to see relatives in England and that she had no intention of trying to rejoin her husband who is reported to be in Paris.

"So long as I am Leonard's I have no eye for anyone else. I love Leonard and I feel he does the same as he did six years ago," said Mrs. Rhinelander. "I am not going to Paris to attempt to find him."

London, July 17.—(UP)—The proposed trip of the Prince of Wales to Norway and Sweden this fall has renewed rumors of a possible alliance between the prince and Princess Astrid of Sweden.

The princess has postponed indefinitely her trip to England.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS THINK FRANCE IS ON THE VERGE OF CRISIS

Paris, July 17.—(UP)—Political observers believe it possible that France is again on the verge of a cabinet crisis following the rejection by the chamber finance commission of Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux's demand for virtual dictatorial powers.

Caillaux has decided to demand a vote of confidence in the chamber today and it is considered highly problematical whether the government will win.

The commission first rejected the full powers article of Caillaux's bill completely and then voted 8 to 0 to accept it in a modified form, thus exposing the entire measure to a chamber vote. The move was designed solely to force a vote, observers say.

DEATH OF 19 YEAR OLD GIRL BRINGS FLOOD OF ARRESTS

DR. THOMAS E. WALSH, WIFE AND 3 OTHER PEOPLE IN CUSTODY

IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF BOSTON HOSPITAL ATTACHE

Boston, July 17.—(UP)—With Dr. Thomas E. Walsh, his wife and three other persons already under arrest, detectives today sought two more suspects in connection with the death of Miss Edith Louise Greene, 19 year old hospital attache.

The physician and his wife surrendered in the office of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien late last night after they had been hunted for three days. Dr. Walsh was held under $15,000 bond.

Early today his wife was released under $2,000 bail furnished by her brother-in-law, Thomas Brown of Quincy.

Dr. Walsh will be arraigned in superior court Monday, charged with performing an illegal operation on Miss Greene, whose dismembered body was found Tuesday in two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag near a Mattapan cemetery. Mrs. Walsh also will be arraigned at that time on a charge of being accessory before the fact.

SWEDISH ROYALTY VISITS NATIONAL PARK IN COLORADO

Durango, Col., July 17.—(UP)—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, the princess and royal party which has been touring America for several weeks, will arrive at Mesa Verde national park Sunday.

The Crown Prince will spend three days in the park where he will be shown about by Judge John H. Edwards, assistant secretary of the interior.

His Royal Highness Gustavus is a student of archaeology and his trip to the park is expected to be one of the most interesting to him, since he will have a chance to study at first hand the ruins of an ancient civilization.

CONGRESS SET A FAST PACE IN PASSING LAWS

Washington, July 17.—(UP)—Congress set a fast pace in passing laws in the session just ended, eclipsing all recent records for first sessions of congress. A total of 897 laws were passed, of which 327 were private and 570 were public, according to a compilation made public here today by Representative Tilson, Connecticut, republican floor leader.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Morris, Minn., July 17.—(UP)—On a charge of embezzling $3,250 from the Donnelly State bank, Frank J. Arkell of Donnelly is to be tried in district court.

Arkell was arraigned here, waived examination and was held in $2,000 bond. Arkell's bondsmen have returned the $3,250.

MANY INJURED, HEAVY PROPERTY LOSS RECORDED

FARMING COMMUNITY WEST AND SOUTH OF ASHLAND DAMAGED

ASHLAND JUNCTION, MERENGO, MELLON IN PATH OF THE STORM

Ashland, Wis., July 17.—(UP)—Three persons are dead, a large number of others were seriously injured and property damage which will run into the thousands of dollars was caused when a tornado swept through the farming community west and south of here last night. The dead were Mabel and Julia Johnson, aged 18 and 20, respectively, and Albert Anderson, 12.

Three communities, Ashland Junction, Merengo and Mellon were almost directly in the path of the storm.

The storm first struck at Ashland Junction and moved southeast leveling farm buildings in its path. The funnel shaped cloud moved on to Merengo and then swept the farming community near Mellon and disappeared.

The two Johnson girls were helping with the chores on the farm of their father, Otto Johnson, when the storm struck. They were lifted bodily from the ground and carried several yards. The impact with which they struck the ground killed them instantly. The girls' parents were also injured and are now at a hospital here.

Near Merengo Albert Anderson was struck by falling debris as the storm struck the Anderson farm home.

FUNNEL SHAPED TWISTER ORIGINATED IN MINNESOTA

Duluth, July 17.—A funnel shaped twister which originated near Chisholm, Minn., did extensive damage in Northeastern Minnesota before it passed into Wisconsin and killed three persons.

The storm apparently broke near Chisholm at 5:10 P. M. yesterday and passed over the iron range of northern Minnesota in its 90 mile advance to Ashland, Wis.

Heavy hailstones, some weighing 14 ounces, accompanied the storm. One man was knocked unconscious at Chisholm by a stone which crashed through the top of his automobile.

TRAIL OF DEVASTATION LEFT IN ITS WAKE

Ashland, Wis., July 17.—A trail of devastation was left today in the wake of the tornado which swept across northwestern Wisconsin last night after skipping across Lake Superior, from Minnesota.

Three known dead, two others reported killed and two score or more injured were the casualties revealed today.

The known dead were: Mabel Johnson, 19, Julia Johnson, 23, her sister, Albert Anderson, 12.

The storm wrecked or damaged almost every building in the village of Upson, near Ashland, and caused heavy damage in the vicinity of Ashland Junction, Merengo and Mellon, Wis.

Twenty-five persons were injured at Upson, which has a population of about 300.

The Johnson sisters were fatally injured on their farm, where they had just finished their chores. The Anderson boy was killed while working on a farm near Mellon.

Reports of two deaths at White River Hall, Wis., were unverified. Apparently starting in the vicinity of Chisholm, Minn., the storm swept southeasterly over Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

Hail stones of large size, some as big as baseballs and hens eggs, accompanied the storm.

Two were injured when struck by hailstones at Chisholm, Minn. Another man working in a potato patch near Zim, Minn., was rendered unconscious and his horse was killed.

At Eveleth, Minn., no injuries were reported, but many windows were smashed by the hail stones and other damage was done.

Hailstones broke windows and damaged automobile tops in the vicinity of Hibbing, Minn. The storm did not strike Hibbing proper.

Judge Charles A. McDonald, who is superintending the investigation, said it was apparent that some one had either advised or warned the witnesses to take the stand they did.

It was rumored that the gag order may have come from the higher-ups following the indictment of 44 persons earlier in the day.

The consequences of the witnesses' stonewalling of the grand jury are to be determined.

POLICE GUARD HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL FROM ATTACK

Boston, Mass., July 17.—(UP)—Police guarded the Harvard medical school today following receipt of a bomb threat by officials of the institution.

"Something like the New Jersey explosion" might be expected soon, according to the anonymous letter. No reason for the threat was given and school authorities could not explain it. They regarded the letter as the work of a practical joker.

100 JAILED IN NARCOTIC RAIDS

Washington, July 17.—(UP)—One hundred persons were in jail here today as a result of narcotic raids on 15 homes late last night. Fourteen squads of federal agents gathered here from New York, Chicago, Baltimore and Boston, staged the raids, some of them within sight of the national capitol.

NEW FLOODS DAMAGE 40,000 ACRES IN SERBIA

Belgrade, July 17.—(UP)—Fifty-two persons are dead in new floods which have swept the Apulian and Sava districts following bursting of river dikes. The dikes were washed out when rivers rose due to a series of cloudbursts. New floods have spread over 40,000 acres of land in southern Serbia.

Berlin, July 17.—(UP)—Allgemeine Zeitung dispatches from Belgrade report that 40 persons were killed and 20 injured when floods destroyed part of the Montenegrin village of Rugovo.

Vienna, July 17.—(UP)—Unconfirmed dispatches from Belgrade report that a landslide caused by heavy rains has buried a passenger train near Sarajevo. It is reported that from 80 to 100 persons are believed lost.

YOUTH SHOT AND KILLED AFTER HOLDUP MADE

CHICAGO POLICE ARREST COMPANION IN HYDE PARK DISTRICT

2 WERE STUDENTS WHO HELD UP ANOTHER STUDENT AND CO-ED

Chicago, July 17.—(UP)—A 19 year old youth was shot and killed by police last night and his companion arrested after the two held up a University of Chicago coed and her student escort in Chicago's exclusive Hyde Park district.

The dead holdup man was identified as Bernard Carmichael of Milan, Mo. Papers in his pockets indicated that he also was a student at a local university. He was struck in the temple dying on the way to a hospital.

The two had robbed George Gray and Miss Laverne Lane, both University of Chicago students, of $14 and were walking nonchalantly down the street when a police automobile approached and Gray sounded the alarm.

When Policemen Leddy and Conlan commanded the pair to stop, they broke into a run and the shooting occurred.

Dexter C. Harrison, 24, Battle Creek, Mich., the other youth, was arrested later in a down town rooming house and made a full confession of his part in the hold-up of Miss Lane and Gray, police said.

MATHEW McNEIL BANDIT SUSPECT, HAS CONFESSED

POLICE SO STATE AFTER TAKING HIM FROM SUPERIOR TO MILWAUKEE

CLAIM HE WAS IN GANG RAIDING NORTHWESTERN NATIONAL BANK AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—(UP)—Mathew McNeil, arrested at Superior as a bandit suspect and brought here yesterday for questioning, has confessed, according to police, that he was one of the bandits who took part in the raid upon the Northwestern National Bank here December 8, 1924. While McNeil, according to police, gave all information regarding his connection with the robbery, he refused to name his associates in the raid.

McNeil, according to police, talked freely to investigators, among them being Assistant District Attorney George B. Skogmo, captain of detectives, Harry McCrory and other members of the police department.

He will be taken to the district attorney's office today where a stenographic report of his reported confession will be made which he had agreed to sign.

Police declared he will be arraigned probably on Monday or Tuesday.

ALICE RHNELANDER PROFESSES LOVE FOR HER YOUNG HUSBAND

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 17.—(UP)—Professing undying love for Leonard Kip Rhnelander, Alice, his wife, left her home here for Europe. She will sail from New York on the Majestic with her mother and a woman friend from Hartford, Conn., whose name was not disclosed.

Mrs. Rhnelander said their trip is to see relatives in England and that she had no intention of trying to rejoin her husband who is reported to be in Paris.

"So long as I am Leonard's I have no eye for anyone else. I love Leonard and I feel he does the same as he did six years ago," said Mrs. Rhnelander. "I am not going to Paris to attempt to find him."

London, July 17.—(UP)—The proposed trip of the Prince of Wales to Norway and Sweden this fall has renewed rumors of a possible alliance between the prince and Princess Astrid of Sweden.

The princess has postponed indefinitely her trip to England.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS THINK FRANCE IS ON THE VERGE OF CRISIS

Paris, July 17.—(UP)—Political observers believe it possible that France is again on the verge of a cabinet crisis following the rejection by the chamber finance commission of Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux's demand for virtual dictatorial powers.

Caillaux has decided to demand a vote of confidence in the chamber today and it is considered highly problematical whether the government will win.

The commission first rejected the full powers article of Caillaux's bill completely and then voted 8 to 0 to accept it in a modified form, thus exposing the entire measure to a chamber vote. The move was designed solely to force a vote, observers say.

DEATH OF 19 YEAR OLD GIRL BRINGS FLOOD OF ARRESTS

DR. THOMAS E. WALSH, WIFE AND 3 OTHER PEOPLE IN CUSTODY

IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF BOSTON HOSPITAL ATTACHE

Boston, July 17.—(UP)—With Dr. Thomas E. Walsh, his wife and three other persons already under arrest, detectives today sought two more suspects in connection with the death of Miss Edith Louise Greene, 19 year old hospital attache.

The physician and his wife surrendered in the office of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien late last night after they had been hunted for three days. Dr. Walsh was held under $15,000 bond.

Early today his wife was released under $2,000 bail furnished by her brother-in-law, Thomas Brown of Quincy.

Dr. Walsh will be arraigned in superior court Monday, charged with performing an illegal operation on Miss Greene, whose dismembered body was found Tuesday in two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag near a Mattapan cemetery. Mrs. Walsh also will be arraigned at that time on a charge of being accessory before the fact.

SWEDISH ROYALTY VISITS NATIONAL PARK IN COLORADO

Durango, Col., July 17.—(UP)—Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, the princess and royal party which has been touring America for several weeks, will arrive at Mesa Verde national park Sunday.

The Crown Prince will spend three days in the park where he will be shown about by Judge John H. Edwards, assistant secretary of the interior.

His Royal Highness Gustavus is a student of archaeology and his trip to the park is expected to be one of the most interesting to him, since he will have a chance to study at first hand the ruins of an ancient civilization.

CONGRESS SET A FAST PACE IN PASSING LAWS

Washington, July 17.—(UP)—Congress set a fast pace in passing laws in the session just ended, eclipsing all recent records for first sessions of congress. A total of 897 laws were passed, of which 327 were private and 570 were public, according to a compilation made public here today by Representative Tilson, Connecticut, republican floor leader.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Morris, Minn., July 17.—(UP)—On a charge of embezzling $3,250 from the Donnelly State bank, Frank J. Arkell of Donnelly is to be tried in district court.

Arkell was arraigned here, waived examination and was held in $2,000 bond. Arkell's bondsmen have returned the $3,250.

MANY INJURED, HEAVY PROPERTY LOSS RECORDED

FARMING COMMUNITY WEST AND SOUTH OF ASHLAND DAMAGED

ASHLAND JUNCTION, MERENGO, MELLON IN PATH OF THE STORM

Ashland, Wis., July 17.—(UP)—Three persons are dead, a large number of others were seriously injured and property damage which will run into the thousands of dollars was caused when a tornado swept through the farming community west and south of here last night. The dead were Mabel and Julia Johnson, aged 18 and 20, respectively, and Albert Anderson, 12.

Three communities, Ashland Junction, Merengo and Mellon were almost directly in the path of the storm.

The storm first struck at Ashland Junction and moved southeast leveling farm buildings in its path. The funnel shaped cloud moved on to Merengo and then swept the farming community near Mellon and disappeared.

The two Johnson girls were helping with the chores on the farm of their father, Otto Johnson, when the storm struck. They were lifted bodily from the ground and carried several yards. The impact with which they struck the ground killed them instantly. The girls' parents were also injured and are now at a hospital here.

Near Merengo Albert Anderson was struck by falling debris as the storm struck the Anderson farm home.

FUNNEL SHAPED TWISTER ORIGINATED IN MINNESOTA

Duluth, July 17.—A funnel shaped twister which originated near Chisholm, Minn., did extensive damage in Northeastern Minnesota before it passed into Wisconsin and killed three persons.

The storm apparently broke near Chisholm at 5:10 P. M. yesterday and passed over the iron range of northern Minnesota in its 90 mile advance to Ashland, Wis.

Heavy hailstones, some weighing 14 ounces, accompanied the storm. One man was knocked unconscious at Chisholm by a stone which crashed through the top of his automobile.

TRAIL OF DEVASTATION LEFT IN ITS WAKE

Ashland, Wis., July 17.—A trail of devastation was left today in the wake of the tornado which swept across northwestern Wisconsin last night after skipping across Lake Superior from Minnesota.

Three known dead, two others reported killed and two score or more injured were the casualties revealed today.

The known dead were: Mabel Johnson, 19. Julia Johnson, 23, her sister. Albert Anderson, 12.

The storm wrecked or damaged almost every building in the village of Upson, near Ashland, and caused heavy damage in the vicinity of Ashland Junction, Marengo and Mellon, Wis.

Twenty-five persons were injured at Upson, which has a population of about 300.

The Johnson sisters were fatally injured on their farm, where they had just finished their chores. The Anderson boy was killed while working on a farm near Mellon.

Reports of two deaths at White River Hall, Wis., were unverified. Apparently starting in the vicinity of Chisholm, Minn., the storm swept southeasterly over Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

Hail stones of large size, some as big as baseballs and hens eggs, accompanied the storm.

Two were injured when struck by hailstones at Chisholm, Minn. Another man working in a potato patch near Zim, Minn., was rendered unconscious and his horse was killed. At Eveleth, Minn., no injuries were reported, but many windows were smashed by the hail stones and other damage was done.

Hailstones broke windows and damaged automobile tops in the vicinity of Hibbing, Minn. The storm did not strike Hibbing proper.

Like Aunt, Like Nephew

E. M. Statter, the noted hotel man, said at a dinner in New York: "This year is the centenary of Brillat-Savarin, the great epicure. Brillat-Savarin inherited his love of good food. An aunt of his died at the age of ninety-nine as she was finishing a succulent five-course dinner in bed."

"I feel that I am going," said the old lady. "Quick! Bring my dessert."

Anticipation

"How many times have you failed in your examination?" "Tomorrow will make the third time."

Horses in England

Horses in England are decreasing in number at a rate of nearly 70,000 a year.

Britain Behind the Times

Britain contains more unclaimed money than any other country in the world. This is due to the complexity of civilization in the islands, the wandering habits of the race and, above all, to the lack of any system of distributing derelict wealth. Such a system exists everywhere else that counts; but in England, ownerless gold steadily accumulates year after year.

Too Great Tendency to Magnify Trouble

A young man heard a lecturer say: "Of all venomous reptiles the 'cottonmouth' is most dangerous; a man rarely lives an hour if bitten by one."

Later the young man went fishing. He clambered along a sheer rock wall, his rod pointing ahead of him, his bait afloat upon the water. Presently a cottonmouth dropped into the stream before him; then another and another. He paid no attention, for he was used to cottonmouths. He groped with his left hand in the briars and vines, to hold himself on the ledge. Suddenly something stabbed his finger. Two pin-points trickled blood. Then the biggest cottonmouth he had ever seen uncoiled from the vines above him.

Cold sweat broke over the young man. His hand throbbled. He felt the poison burn in his veins, paralyze his nerves. He decided to leap into the stream rather than suffer the slow death now coming. He poised to do it when a fish struck his bait. His rod bent to the fighting pull of a great bass. Instinctively he thrilled to the battle—the tingling thrill of the fisherman when "a big one" hits the fly.

He landed the bass after an hour, gloried over the big, fighting fish, then remembered his hand. It didn't throb any more. He took courage to probe the pin-point wounds. In each of them he found—a long, sharp, harmless nettle!

Which only means that imagination can doom men to death; does doom many to failure. Pricked by a nettle, they imagine they have been bitten by the cottonmouth; meeting a little trouble they imagine it fatal.

Don't let imagination enlarge your troubles. Turn it on the other way, making it enlarge your power to meet troubles and overcome them. Most troubles are nettles, not cottonmouths.—Milwaukee Journal.

Red Tape Defied

A crystal water pitcher, upon which was blazoned the arms of the United States of America in silver, disappeared from the courtroom of Judge Charles C. Simons in the Federal building some eight months ago. With it disappeared a glass, bearing the crest in like design, also in silver. When the loss was discovered, Judge Simons made application for a new pitcher and a new glass. For eight months Judge Simons thrived as lawyer after lawyer waded through the musty, dusty processes of the law. Then he decided to thirst no longer. Francis X. Norris, clerk of the court, was delegated to shop for a pitcher, and he bought one in a downtown five-and-ten-cent store. Meanwhile Judge Simons' application for a pitcher which more becomes the dignity of the federal bench is being bound with Washington red tape.—Detroit News.

"Barefoot Boy" Still Lives

The original "Barefoot Boy," referred to by John Greenleaf Whittier in his immortal poem, still has his "cheek of tan." He is Francis D. Marston, who as a boy was employed by the poet, and who still works about the Whittier estate in Danvers, Mass. Many years ago, when little Frankie Marston picked blueberries and gathered up the fallen leaves about Whittier's farm, Oak Knoll, his poet friend was inspired by the youth's bare feet, his turned-up trousers, his cheek of tan and his merry whistle tunes. Though Marston now has aged and wears a full beard he still enjoys taking off his shoes and going barefooted when he journeys through the moss-carpeted woodlands. Throughout his life he has lived in the open and beneath his beard still may be seen the "cheek of tan" which helped inspire Whittier.

Growing Scalp Skin

To grow new skin on a damaged scalp, an Illinois doctor has resurrected the method of boring slight holes into the skull with a bone drill. This method was used back in 1777 by a Philadelphia doctor named Vance who had a patient who had been scalped by Indians. His wound had all healed, except the middle portion which was bare bone, and which showed no signs of improving. Vance took a shoemaker's awl and bored numerous holes through the outer table of the skull. He quit boring when a reddish fluid appeared. In his account of the case following operation, he said that "after a time proud flesh appeared to rise in these holes," and he further stated that the wound "skun over slow."—New York World.

Four-Century Watch

A watch which is four hundred and eleven years old and still keeps excellent time is owned by H. B. Cheney of Pennecook, N. H. It is a coin silver watch and according to family history was purchased in Liverpool, England, by Mr. Cheney's great-grandfather who passed it on to his son. The present owner of the watch came into possession of it forty years ago. He is now eighty-one years old. Mr. Cheney did not realize the value of the watch until a visitor to his home took the watch to clean it and found it had the date of manufacture engraved upon the works.—Exchange.

Like Aunt, Like Nephew

E. M. Statler, the noted hotel man, said at a dinner in New York:

"This year is the centenary of Brillat-Savarin, the great epicure. Brilliant Savarin inherited his love of good food. An aunt of his died at the age of ninety-nine as she was finishing a succulent five-course dinner in bed."

"I feel that I am going," said the old lady. "Quick! Bring my dessert."

Heavy Traffic Bridge

The Queensboro bridge in New York accommodates 35,000 vehicles daily. According to the steady increase in the number of vehicles which go over this bridge, it is believed that the count will soon be 40,000.

Easily Done

"You can't get something for nothing," said the ready-made philosopher. "I can't," replied the gloomy person. "But the man who sold me the oil stock could."

Anticipation

"How many times have you fallen in your examination?" "Tomorrow will make the third time."

Horses in England

Horses in England are decreasing in number at a rate of nearly 70,000 a year.

Britain Behind the Times

Britain contains more unclaimed money than any other country in the world. This is due to the complexity of civilization in the islands, the wandering habits of the race and, above all, to the lack of any system of distributing derelict wealth. Such a system exists everywhere else that counts; but in England, ownerless gold steadily accumulates year after year.

Too Great Tendency to Magnify Trouble

A young man heard a lecturer say: "Of all venomous reptiles the 'cottonmouth' is most dangerous; a man rarely lives an hour if bitten by one."

Later the young man went fishing. He clambered along a sheer rock wall, his rod pointing ahead of him, his bait afloat upon the water. Presently a cottonmouth dropped into the stream before him; then another and another. He paid no attention, for he was used to cottonmouths. He groped with his left hand in the briars and vines, to hold himself on the ledge. Suddenly something stabbed his finger. Two pin-points trickled blood. Then the biggest cottonmouth he had ever seen uncoiled from the vines above him.

Cold sweat broke over the young man. His hand throbbled. He felt the poison burn in his veins, paralyze his nerves. He decided to leap into the stream rather than suffer the slow death now coming. He poised to do it when a fish struck his bait. His rod bent to the fighting pull of a great bass. Instinctively he thrilled to the battle—the tingling thrill of the fisherman when "a big one" hits the fly.

He landed the bass after an hour, gloried over the big, fighting fish, then remembered his hand. It didn't throb any more. He took courage to probe the pin-point wounds. In each of them he found—a long, sharp, harmless nettle!

Which only means that imagination can doom men to death; does doom many to failure. Pricked by a nettle, they imagine they have been bitten by the cottonmouth; meeting a little trouble they imagine it fatal.

Don't let imagination enlarge your troubles. Turn it on the other way, making it enlarge your power to meet troubles and overcome them. Most troubles are nettles, not cottonmouths. —Milwaukee Journal.

Red Tape Defied

A crystal water pitcher, upon which was blazoned the arms of the United States of America in silver, disappeared from the courtroom of Judge Charles C. Simons in the Federal building some eight months ago. With it disappeared a glass, bearing the crest in like design, also in silver. When the loss was discovered, Judge Simons made application for a new pitcher and a new glass. For eight months Judge Simons thirsted as lawyer after lawyer waded through the musty, dusty processes of the law. Then he decided to thirst no longer. Francis X. Norris, clerk of the court, was delegated to shop for a pitcher, and he bought one in a downtown five-and-ten-cent store. Meanwhile Judge Simons' application for a pitcher which more becomes the dignity of the federal bench is being bound with Washington red tape.—Detroit News.

"Barefoot Boy" Still Lives

The original "Barefoot Boy," referred to by John Greenleaf Whittier in his immortal poem, still has his "cheek of tan." He is Francis D. Marston, who as a boy was employed by the poet, and who still works about the Whittier estate in Danvers, Mass. Many years ago, when little Frankie Marston picked blueberries and gathered up the fallen leaves about Whittier's farm, Oak Knoll, his poet friend was inspired by the youth's bare feet, his turned-up trousers, his cheek of tan and his merry whistle tunes. Though Marston now has aged and wears a full beard he still enjoys taking off his shoes and going barefooted when he journeys through the moss-carpeted woodlands. Throughout his life he has lived in the open and beneath his beard still may be seen the "cheek of tan" which helped inspire Whittier.

Growing Scalp Skin

To grow new skin on a damaged scalp, an Illinois doctor has resurrected the method of boring slight holes into the skull with a bone drill. This method was used back in 1777 by a Philadelphia doctor named Vance who had a patient who had been scalped by Indians. His wound had all healed, except the middle portion which was bare bone, and which showed no signs of improving. Vance took a shoemaker's awl and bored numerous holes through the outer table of the skull. He quit boring when a reddish fluid appeared. In his account of the case following operation, he said that "after a time proud flesh appeared to rise in these holes," and he further stated that the wound "skun over slow." —New York World.

Four-Century Watch

A watch which is four hundred and eleven years old and still keeps excellent time is owned by H. B. Cheney of Penacook, N. H. It is a coin silver watch and according to family history was purchased in Liverpool, England, by Mr. Cheney's great-grandfather who passed it on to his son. The present owner of the watch came into possession of it forty years ago. He is now eighty-one years old. Mr. Cheney did not realize the value of the watch until a visitor to his home took the watch to clean it and found it had the date of manufacture engraved upon the works.—Exchange.

REAL CIRCUS HERE JULY 19, 20

Christ & Hough Circus to Perform
Twice Daily Monday and Tuesday

Gorgeous Street Parade Will be Held at 7 O'clock This Evening

The gang is jubilant. Throngs of youngsters are swarming the corner of Oak and Sixth streets where the large tent and side shows of the Girl Scout circus still remain and under which the Christ and Hough circus will perform twice daily, Monday and Tuesday, July 19 and 20 for the benefit of the local Fire Department. The jungle beasts and lesser animals are beginning to arrive and plans are being rapidly completed for the first real circus that Brainerd has had for several years.

Tonight at 7 o'clock old and young will be out en masse to view the gorgeous parade which will wind its way through the main streets of the city and end up at the circus grounds. The Brainerd boys concert band, 35 strong will lead the line of march in their spotless uniforms and with every instrument shining and playing its best, will herald the opening of the circus, Monday afternoon. The entire fire department will be out in full regalia, the two trucks and water wagon will also be in the procession, and last but not least the entire circus will pass in review of the spectators.

One of the outstanding attractions will be a special act by 11 ponies that drew a salary of $1,000 a week while performing at Donaldsons and the Golden Rule in the twin cities last year and are booked for a return engagement next December and January.

The circus will be given for two days as the management feels certain that the first day's performance will advertise and prove without exception that they have the finest circus of its size on the road today.

Citizens are asked to cooperate and give their utmost in moral support to the fire department in order to make a success of the circus as the money realized from the proceeds will be put into the general fund for general expenses and to enable delegates to attend conventions where the newest methods of fire fighting are taught. The department has no income whatsoever and fires are fought by volunteer firemen from the city who are paid by the hour for rendering their services and while so doing often risk their all for the welfare of the community which they serve. Very few taxpayers realize that for $2,000 a year they are given a $12,000 service by the department.

TORNADO NEAR ASHLAND, WIS., KILLS 3 PEOPLE

Slight damage was reported from Sturgeon Lake, Bear River and other communities in Minnesota north of Hibbing.

At Swan Lake, Minn., the damage also was slight. The path of the storm extended from Chisholm to Port Wing, Wis., where it was spent. It passed high over Duluth and vicinity and Lake Superior.

Little damage was reported from Two Harbors, Minn.

Among those known to have been injured were Helma Johnson, who was hurt on a farm near Ashland Junction, and C. A. Willis, a farmer, who suffered a fracture of both legs.

An aged woman was reported missing at Ashland Junction and her fate has not been determined.

Eight farm houses were badly damaged near Ashland, where the storm seemed to have reached the peak of its fury and a barn was blown over at Port Wing.

No damage by hail was reported from Mountain Iron, but lightning fired a barn there, causing a loss of several thousand dollars. One hundred sheep disappeared during the storm and are believed to have been killed.

Pat Galligan narrowly escaped injury or possible death when his home was lifted from its foundations and blown away while he was in the kitchen.

The farm house of Louis Johnson nearby was leveled. Johnson and Galligan live near Ashland.

The storm cut a path 1½ miles wide and eight miles long when it turned at Ashland and went south-east.

The Bad river bridge on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, 300 feet long and 150 feet high, was reported down and trains were rerouted.

A telegraph operator at Sanborn, Wis., reported seeing the twister pass between Gurney and Marengo, but neither of these towns was damaged.

Ashland physicians and nurses were rushed into the stricken area. They could not be reached by telephone today and it is feared the number of dead and injured may mount higher than reported.

Telephone communication from Ashland was interrupted toward the north.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—A cyclone which struck the village of Expanse, 34 miles southwest of Moose Jaw, Sask., at about 8 o'clock on Thursday night, did damage estimated at many thousands of dollars. Dwelling houses, stores, elevators, the curling ring and other property were severely damaged.

At Cestywind, a strip of territory 15 miles long and five miles wide was swept, and 3,000 acres of grain damaged.

Considerable damage was caused in the Winnipeg district Friday afternoon by a terrific hailstorm. Thousands of windows were broken in the city and damage to grain crops is heavy in some cases.

EARLY AMERICANS ON PACIFIC COAST

The Columbia river region of the state of Washington harbored one of the densest populations in prehistoric North America, in the opinion of a Smithsonian scientist now making a survey of the pit house sites of the old Yakima and Klickitat Indians, Herbert W. Krieger of the National museum reports to Dr. J. Walker Fewkes, chief of the bureau of ethnology, by whom he was sent out, the existence of a chain of house sites stretching for 500 miles along the banks of the Columbia from the Dalles in Oregon to the Canadian border.

"I think it is safe to say," Mr. Krieger states, "that before the coming of the horse, the Columbia basin was one of the most densely populated sections of North America. The Columbia links up with other northern highways and was undoubtedly one of the great trading centers and routes of travel. Furthermore, food was abundant along the Columbia, elsewhere it was scarce."—Scientific News Service of the Smithsonian Institution.

Tablet Throws Light on Noah and the Ark

In 1872 George Smith of the British museum found an interesting tablet in Nineveh. The inscriptions were deciphered by Assyriologists soon afterward, but Paul Haupt, professor of Assyriology at Johns Hopkins university, has recently rendered a more complete translation. He first restored the tablet to make it legible. Professor Haupt told the American Oriental society at Philadelphia that the inscriptions relate the story of Noah and the ark. According to this account, Noah cut trees down in the jungle and made an ark consisting of six decks which were divided into seven compartments. Two-thirds of the ark was under water when it was afloat. Part of the translation reads: "For our food I slaughtered oxen and killed sheep—day by day. With beer and brandy, oil and wine, I filled large jars, as with water of a river."—Pathfinder Magazine.

V. F. W. NATIONAL HOME TO HAVE NEW BUILDINGS

No need to say "Smile!" It comes natural to Howard Pollett and his sister Mary after a year at the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Home for widows and orphans of ex-service men at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

ACCOMMODATIONS for more families will be provided this summer at the V. F. W. National Home for widows and orphans of ex-service men by four new buildings now being erected on the Home grounds at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

"The need of enlarging our Home facilities by adding to it more buildings and giving it sufficient endowment funds to carry on its service for the ever-increasing family groups of widows and orphans of our deceased comrades is pressing," said Albert J. Rabing, part Commander in Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and President of the National Home, in commenting on the new buildings. "Official records show that deaths directly traceable to service origin averaged more than 4,500 yearly for the past three years. Even at the conservative estimate of one-third of this number as the basis of those who left dependent families, the need of the Home is evident."

"When such dependents require help, we do not ask if the man was a V. F. W. member. We only ask if he served honorably in the forces of the United States. If an ex-service man is disabled to such an extent that he cannot support his family, arrangements will also be made to accommodate him at the Home with them."

The Home functions on a "family group" plan of small buildings and individual dwellings which ensures for each family a normal home environment and keeps mother and children together. Cases to be admitted to the Home in the near future from various parts of the country include a mother in Louisiana, recently widowed, with four children; a war-gassed veteran in Connecticut, with two little girls, one eight and one ten years old; and five children left orphaned in the Far West.

In laying out the ground plan of the Home site, which covers 472 acres, provision has been made for future expansion so that it can eventually accommodate 1500 children. Athletic grounds, a community center, a school, and a community church are included in the plans.

Little Visits Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch
by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St.
Paul.

The heat was so intense today that it took all the ginger and pep a man had. J. A. Swanson was trying to cool himself off by taking a cold drink after doing the morning chores. He bought Joe Smith's place about two months ago. Mr. Smith was an ex-service man but was forced to leave the farm because of injuries received during service. There is a good set of buildings on the place that shows Mr. Smith was ambitious when he was able to work. Mr. Swanson has 325 little White Leghorn chicks and over 200 hens, he worked in the shops for over 25 years but was laid off a few months ago.

C. H. Kylo has an up to date modern farm including a silo and has farmed same for the last 15 years, although a cigar maker by trade but from the appearance of the place and the live stock he is just as good if not better farmer than his former trade. He has 17 cows of the Holstein breed to keep him and his boys busy night and morning, has a pure breed sire of the Ormsby Forbes breeding. For any one who is planning on going into the Holstein breed can well afford to look at the two yearling sires both of the Maccis breeding that Mr. Kylo has for sale.

N. J. Nesheim was busy dragging the road, consequently I didn't get to see him; his wife informed me that he had lived on the place over 40 years raising a little of everything.

Paul Fortune is renting 160 acres and his mother is keeping house for him. They formerly lived at Royalton and Mrs. Fortune says she likes Crow Wing county much better than Morrison. "Three cheers for Crow Wing." Seven cows of the mixed breed are kept on the place.

E. P. Lound and wife like many other farmers in the community were celebrating at Lum park. Irene was keeping house and doing a good job at it at that. Will call and see the boss some other day in the near future.

T. O. Thompson came to Crow Wing county 28 years ago when the expression "wild and woolly" wasn't strong enough and said something stronger. He now has an all modern farm including electric lights that helps so much on the farm to make things a little brighter. No he isn't peddling milk, but he is milking 30 cows of the Durham breed, five acres of alfalfa helps to balance the ration considerably which means more milk in the milk pail.

L. Nesheim, W. Tools, C. Burrow and O. Palstrom were a few of the farmers I failed to find at home.

The Gjernes boys, Ted and Fritz are running the farm which consists of 160 acres, their mother keeping house for them. Their father, home-steaded the place 47 years ago. The farmstead is surrounded by jack pines that are of great protection both winter and summer. The boys have 10 acres of corn that is over waist high. Who says the farmers won't raise anything this year? Eleven cows of the mixed breed are kept and have seven head of pure breed Poland China hogs. They have found that it doesn't take any more feed to raise pure breed than it does a scrub, the fact is it don't take as much.

John Carlson formerly lived in the southern part of Minnesota, coming here six years ago and has farmed 160 acres since that time. General farming is practiced, raising a number of hogs.

Far off the road and down in the valley Ole Rognelson has farmed 160 acres for the past 20 years, but at the present he is laid up with the rheumatism. Nine cows of the mixed breed are milked. But he is going into the Holsteins, using a pure breed sire to build up the herd. Farmers who have used the last of their wood may buy their winter supply at Mr. Rognelson's farm, as he has over 50 cords for sale that can be bought at a reasonable price.

Bill Richards is one of our former Arkansas farmers coming to the good old state 11 years ago, renting a farm that borders the upper end of Long Lake. He has had an acre of alfalfa for the past seven years and does fine even this year, also he has nine acres of sweet clover that makes an ideal pasture crop or hay crop if cut at the right stage. Ruth Mayer from Minneapolis is visiting at the Richard's home this week.

C. A. Wilkins formerly lived in Minneapolis coming to Crow Wing county six years ago and bought himself 67 acres that borders the shore of Long Lake. The six high grade Holsteins have alfalfa hay for the winter as Mr. Wilkins has four acres that is doing fine spite of the dry weather.

John Lidine is not what one calls a full fledged farmer but a lumberjack. The creek that runs through the 120 acre wood lot is harnessed and used for sawing lumber. A few cows and chickens are kept for family use.

W. H. TRIPLETT.

The Brainerd boys concert band, 35 strong will lead the line of march in their spotless uniforms and with every instrument shining and playing its best, will herald the opening of the circus, Monday afternoon. The entire fire department will be out in full regalia, the two trucks and water wagon will also be in the procession, and last but not least the entire circus will pass in review of the spectators.

One of the outstanding attractions will be a special act by 11 ponies that drew a salary of $1,000 a week while performing at Donaldsons and the Golden Rule in the twin cities last year and are booked for a return engagement next December and January.

The circus will be given for two days as the management feels certain that the first day's performance will advertise and prove without exception that they have the finest circus of its size on the road today.

Citizens are asked to cooperate and give their utmost in moral support to the fire department in order to make a success of the circus as the money realized from the proceeds will be put into the general fund for general expenses and to enable delegates to attend conventions where the newest methods of fire fighting are taught. The department has no income whatsoever and fires are fought by volunteer firemen from the city who are paid by the hour for rendering their services and while so doing often risk their all for the welfare of the community which they serve. Very few taxpayers realize that for $2,000 a year they are given a $12,000 service by the department.

TORNADO NEAR ASHLAND, WIS., KILLS 3 PEOPLE

Slight damage was reported from Sturgeon Lake, Bear River and other communities in Minnesota north of Hibbing.

At Swan Lake, Minn., the damage also was slight.

The path of the storm extended from Chisholm to Port Wing, Wis., where it was spent. It passed high over Duluth and vicinity and Lake Superior.

Little damage was reported from Two Harbors, Minn.

Among those known to have been injured were Helma Johnson, who was hurt on a farm near Ashland Junction, and C. A. Willis, a farmer, who suffered a fracture of both legs.

An aged woman was reported missing at Ashland Junction and her fate has not been determined.

Eight farm houses were badly damaged near Ashland, where the storm seemed to have reached the peak of its fury and a barn was blown over at Port Wing.

No damage by hail was reported from Mountain Iron, but lightning fired a barn there, causing a loss of several thousand dollars. One hundred sheep disappeared during the storm and are believed to have been killed.

Pat Galligan narrowly escaped injury or possible death when his home was lifted from its foundations and blown away while he was in the kitchen.

The farm house of Louis Johnson nearby was leveled. Johnson and Galligan live near Ashland.

The storm cut a path 1½ miles wide and eight miles long when it turned at Ashland and went south-east.

The Bad River bridge on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, 300 feet long and 150 feet high, was reported down and trains were rerouted.

A telegraph operator at Sanborn, Wis., reported seeing the twister pass between Gurney and Maungo, but neither of these towns was damaged.

Ashland physicians and nurses were rushed into the stricken area. They could not be reached by telephone today and it is feared the number of dead and injured may mount higher than reported.

Telephone communication from Ashland was interrupted toward the north.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—A cy-

clone which struck the village of Expanse, 34 miles southwest of Moose Jaw, Sask., at about 8 o'clock on Thursday night, did damage estimated at many thousands of dollars. Dwelling houses, stores, elevators, the curling ring and other property were severely damaged.

At Cestywind, a strip of territory 15 miles long and five miles wide was swept, and 3,000 acres of grain damaged.

Considerable damage was caused in the Winnipeg district Friday afternoon by a terrific hailstorm. Thousands of windows were broken in the city and damage to grain crops is heavy in some cases.

EARLY AMERICANS ON PACIFIC COAST

The Columbia river region of the state of Washington harbored one of the densest populations in prehistoric North America, in the opinion of a Smithsonian scientist now making a survey of the pit house sites of the old Yakima and Klickitat Indians, Herbert W. Krieger of the National museum reports to Dr. J. Walker Fewkes, chief of the bureau of ethnology, by whom he was sent out, the existence of a chain of house sites stretching for 500 miles along the banks of the Columbia from the Dalles in Oregon to the Canadian border.

"I think it is safe to say," Mr. Krieger states, "that before the coming of the horse, the Columbia basin was one of the most densely populated sections of North America. The Columbia links up with other northern highways and was undoubtedly one of the great trading centers and routes of travel. Furthermore, food was abundant along the Columbia, elsewhere it was scarce."—Scientific News Service of the Smithsonian Institution.

Tablet Throws Light on Noah and the Ark

In 1872 George Smith of the British museum found an interesting tablet in Nineveh. The inscriptions were deciphered by Assyriologists soon afterward, but Paul Haupt, professor of Assyriology at Johns Hopkins university, has recently rendered a more complete translation. He first restored the tablet to make it legible. Professor Haupt told the American Oriental society at Philadelphia that the inscriptions relate the story of Noah and the ark. According to this account, Noah cut trees down in the jungle and made an ark consisting of six decks which were divided into seven compartments. Two-thirds of the ark was under water when it was afloat. Part of the translation reads: "For our food I slaughtered oxen and killed sheep—day by day. With beer and brandy, oil and wine, I filled large jars, as with water of a river."—Fathfinder Magazine.

V. F. W. NATIONAL HOME TO HAVE NEW BUILDINGS

No need to say "Smile!" It comes natural to Howard Pollett and his sister Mary after a year at the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Home for widows and orphans of ex-service men at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

ACCOMMODATIONS for more families will be provided this summer at the V. F. W. National Home for widows and orphans of ex-service men by four new buildings now being erected on the Home grounds at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

"The need of enlarging our Home facilities by adding to it more buildings and giving it sufficient endowment funds to carry on its service for the ever-increasing family groups of widows and orphans of our deceased comrades is pressing," said Albert J. Rabing, past Commander in Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and President of the National Home, in commenting on the new buildings. "Official records show that deaths directly traceable to service origin averaged more than 4,500 yearly for the past three years. Even at the conservative estimate of one-third of this number as the basis of those who left dependent families, the need of the Home is evident."

"When such dependents require help, we do not ask if the man was a V. F. W. member. We only ask if he served honorably in the forces of the United States. If an ex-service man is disabled to such an extent that he cannot support his family, arrangements will also be made to accommodate him at the Home with them."

The Home functions on a "family group" plan of small building units and individual dwellings which ensures for each family a normal home environment and keeps mother and children together. Cases to be admitted to the Home in the near future from various parts of the country include a mother in Louisiana, recently widowed, with four children; a war-gassed veteran in Connecticut, with two little girls, one eight and one ten years old; and five children left orphaned in the Far West.

In laying out the ground plan of the Home site, which covers 472 acres, provision has been made for future expansion so that it can eventually accommodate 1500 children. Athletic grounds, a community center, a school, and a community church are included in the plans.

Little Visits

Around the Rural Section

W. H. Triplett

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

The heat was so intense today that it took all the ginger and pep a man had. J. A. Swanson was trying to cool himself off by taking a cold drink after doing the morning chores. He bought Joe Smith's place about two months ago. Mr. Smith was an ex-service man but was forced to leave the farm because of injuries received during service. There is a good set of buildings on the place that shows Mr. Smith was ambitious when he was able to work. Mr. Swanson has 325 little white Leghorn chicks and over 200 hens, he worked in the shops for over 25 years but was laid off a few months ago.

C. H. Kylo has an up to date modern farm including a silo and has farmed same for the last 15 years, although a cigar maker by trade but from the appearance of the place and the live stock he is just as good if not better farmer than his former trade. He has 17 cows of the Holstein breed to keep him and his boys busy night and morning, has a pure bred sire of the Ormsby Forbes breeding. For any one who is planning on going into the Holstein breed can well afford to look at the two yearling sires both of the Maccis breeding that Mr. Kylo has for sale.

N. J. Nesheim was busy dragging the road, consequently I didn't get to see him; his wife informed me that he had lived on the place over 40 years raising a little of everything.

Paul Fortune is renting 160 acres and his mother is keeping house for him. They formerly lived at Royalton and Mrs. Fortune says she likes Crow Wing county much better than Morrison. "Three cheers for Crow Wing." Seven cows of the mixed breed are kept on the place.

E. P. Lound and wife like many other farmers in the community were celebrating at Lum park. Irene was keeping house and doing a good job at it at that. Will call and see the boss some other day in the near future.

T. O. Thompson came to Crow Wing county 28 years ago when the expression "wild and woolly" wasn't strong enough and said something stronger. He now has an all modern farm including electric lights that helps so much on the farm to make things a little brighter. No he isn't peddling milk, but he is milking 30 cows of the Durham breed, five acres of alfalfa helps to balance the ration considerably which means more milk in the milk pail.

L. Nesheim, W. Tools, C. Burrow and O. Falstrom were a few of the farmers I failed to find at home.

The Gjernes boys, Ted and Fritz are running the farm which consists of 160 acres, their mother keeping house for them. Their father home-stayed the place 47 years ago. The farmstead is surrounded by jack pines that are of great protection both winter and summer. The boys have 10 acres of corn that is over waist high. Who says the farmers won't raise anything this year? Eleven cows of the mixed breed are kept and have seven head of pure breed Poland China hogs. They have found that it doesn't take any more feed to raise pure breed than it does a scrub, the fact is it doesn't take as much.

John Carlson formerly lived in the southern part of Minnesota, coming here six years ago and has farmed 160 acres since that time. General farming is practiced, raising a number of hogs.

Far off the road and down in the valley Ole Rognelson has farmed 160 acres for the past 20 years, but at the present he is laid up with the rheumatism. Nine cows of the mixed breed are milked. But he is going into the Holsteins, using a pure bred sire to build up the herd. Farmers who have used the last of their wood may buy their winter supply at Mr. Rognelson's farm, as he has over 50 cords for sale that can be bought at a reasonable price.

Bill Richards is one of our former Arkansas farmers coming to the good old state 11 years ago, renting a farm that borders the upper end of Long Lake. He has had an acre of alfalfa for the past seven years and does fine even this year, also he has nine acres of sweet clover that makes an ideal pasture crop or hay crop if cut at the right stage. Ruth Mayer from Minneapolis is visiting at the Richards' home this week.

C. A. Wilkins formerly lived in Minneapolis coming to Crow Wing county six years ago and bought himself 67 acres that borders the shore of Long Lake. The six high grade Holsteins have alfalfa hay for the winter as Mr. Wilkins has four acres that is doing fine spite of the dry weather.

John Lidine is not what one calls a full fledged farmer but a lumberjack. The creek that runs through the 120 acre wood lot is harnessed and used for sawing lumber. A few cows and chickens are kept for family use.

W. H. TRIPLETT.

POOR HANDWRITING

ONCE in a while THE BRAINERD DISPATCH receives copy for publication written in longhand and in such shape as to puzzle the most astute student of chirography. What causes us to wonder, in other words, colloquially expressed, "what gets our goat," is why people who murder the graceful slants of English writing should seek to be proud of the output of such a pen.

Modern business demands legible handwriting, even in a man's signature. A newspaper office loses valuable time trying to decipher handwriting. The state of Minnesota long since recognized that notaries public, like bank cashiers, are inordinately proud of illegible signatures, and so has compelled the notary, when he takes an affidavit, to add his printed signature to the written one. The state of Illinois went a step further years ago and ordered the notary's name cut in his seal.

It's because of the wave of poor handwriting bidding fair to engulf the country that the typewriter gained its position of prominence.

Schools should take it upon themselves to create a new order of things and revive legible penmanship. Don't pay so much attention to the flourishes and the shading, but give us handwriting that can be read as easily as the price tag of a bargain sale.

BIG MEN IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

BIG men of President Coolidge's cabinet have been in our neighborhood. Secretary Jardine, of the Department of Agriculture, fished in the waters of Leech lake and caught more than the president did in New York state. As reported in the Walker Pilot, the secretary was so well pleased with the north country as a vacation place that at the reception at Glengary he went on record as stating that he hoped to make such arrangements as would make it possible for him to return next season when he would be accompanied by Mrs. Jardine and remain a whole month.

Henry I. Cohen called on THE DISPATCH office yesterday and Henry said that another member of the Coolidge cabinet was in our vicinity. It was none other than Herbert Hoover. Out in the Park Rapids country he inspected the Glantz model dairy farm and commented on how dairying is making progress in Minnesota. It is well and seeming and fit that the cabinet acquaint itself with our state. We have much to show them and we welcome most heartily all members of Coolidge's official family.

LUM PARK REJUVENATED

LUM park which last year showed a deficiency is this year resuming its place as a money maker for the park board. It is constantly gaining in public favor. Take this week, for instance. The park has been utilized for concerts, for "Achievement Day" exhibitions, picnics, dances, etc. Prominent grand lodge officers of a local lodge will banquet there. Lum park belongs to the people and it is being used by the people. Its beauties, accommodations, recreation grounds and attractions have gained the attention of home people and out of town visitors.

The imposing entrance is fast nearing completion and is a beautiful design executed in most artistic manner. Leon E. Lum builded wisely and well when he gave the park to the city and thus in unostentatious manner gained a place in the hearts of Brainerd people. Lum park is a monument symbolizing in beautiful fashion his love for Brainerd.

We must hand a bouquet to the Superior police force. Suspecting a band of itinerant ne'er do wells as bandits, the force trailed them several days and then pounced upon them just as they were about to rob a bank. Yes, the best police business like the best medical service is now exercised in the field of preventive measures. It is better to prevent crime or illness than to wait until something serious happens and then run around the country looking for a doctor or policeman. We have no intention of associating doctors and policemen, only as in a spirit of analogy. Crime as well as disease, however, can be arrested by intelligent application of the right remedies.

We remember reading avidly Jules Verne's trip around the world in 90 days. And here, just yesterday, two business men of the United States, carrying only a handbag and a pocketfull of checks and money circle the globe in 28 days, 14 hours, 36 minutes and five seconds. The crowd welcoming them at New York delayed them in the last 15 miles of automobile trip, which caused the five seconds to appear in the record.

THE BRAINERD DISPATCH notes that Minnesota creamery butter is of so high quality and has been so effectively advertised that it is attracting thieves, who raid creameries and carry off this golden representative of real money. As Minnesota butter is like coin of the realm, creameries will be wise to follow the example of banks and take out burglar insurance.—St. Cloud Daily Journal Press.

A report comes from the East, says the Hibbing News, that the "Democrats are hopeful." Were they ever otherwise? That's one of the real thrills of being a Democrat—there's always something to hope for, even if it doesn't.

DULUTH, which has a reputation for being cool summer and winter, has staged a fine peony show, while Brainerd in a banana belt of humidity and warmth has to postpone its show until the fall season.

It's so easy to find fault. The man who really does things of a constructive nature is always the target of some fault finder. Men who do nothing, never become targets for criticism.

J*5 BUSH pitched yesterday and Brainerd glued its face to see how he fared. All Brainerd and this section of the Northwest hope he will make a good record with Pittsburgh.

LEGEND MAY NOT BE ENTIRELY FANCIFUL

The legend of the labyrinth is one of the best known of all legends in the story of Theseus, who with six other Greek youths and seven maidens, was sent into the Cretan labyrinth to face the terrible minotaur. He killed the monster, but would have been unable to find his way out of the innumerable twisting passages of the labyrinth had not Ariadne given him a skein of thread to unwind as he entered.

Until recent years this legend has been believed to be entirely fanciful, and the idea of the labyrinth suggested by a cave on the mountainside near Crossus, the ancient home of the Cretan king. Excavations at Crossus, however, have disclosed an ancient palace of labyrinthine intricacies. On its walls are pictures of boys and girls, presumably captives trained in their art, vaulting onto the back of a charging bull, and beneath the palace have been found dungeons in which the tormented may have been kept. Religious symbols called labrys, shaped like a double ax, are also on the walls, hence the palace may have got its name of labyrinth from worship which the labrys typifies.—Kansas City Star.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN PUT MORE GENTLY

H. L. Mencken was complaining about an attack that had been made on one of his essays.

"This kind of criticism," he went on, rather plaintively, "makes me feel as bad as the farmer's wife."

"A farmer's wife sat with her husband looking at the undies ads in the back of a magazine. The ads were illustrated with photographs of the loveliest girls. In silk stockings and high-heeled shoes these girls, wearing diaphanous and costly undies, lounged before mirrors or reclined on vast couches or smoked cigarettes and drank tea with their young husbands."

"The farmer's wife was thrilled. She pointed to a ravishing girl in the most ravishing undies and said:

"Don't you think them undies would become me, Bill?"

"'Yep,' Bill grunted, 'and so would that shape.'"

Largest Round Table

The table of the Knights of the Round Table in London is said to be the world's largest round table. It stands in a room of a famous Strand restaurant there. Consisting of a single cut across the trunk of a gigantic Spanish mahogany tree. It is also the largest one-piece table in the world. In fact, it is so large that, when the restaurant was being rebuilt some years ago it could not be moved, and the room had to be built around it. The table was first exhibited at the great exposition in 1851. Though it is seventy-five years old, it is young when compared to the order that owns it. The order of the Knights of the Round Table was formed in 1720.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Perpetual Motion?

A Cape Town inventor claims to have produced a working model of a machine that is capable of running a commercial engine or any kind of pump for an indefinite time without outside fuel for driving purposes.

It is quite a new application of existing mechanical laws, and runs entirely by its own volition. The only cost to its user will be for the replacement of worn parts, a practically negligible point. It will continue working until stopped voluntarily.

Italians Play Basket Ball

Basket ball, unknown in Italy before the war, bids fair to become the national game of the country, says Samuel Ybarogoyen, physical director of the Turin Y. M. C. A., on leave in this country. A national basket-ball federation of fifty clubs, corresponding to the A. A. U., has been formed. Last year 2,000 members received cards entitling them to participate in the national championship games.

Good Work

Walter Hagen, the golf champion, told a golf story at a dinner in St. Petersburg during his Florida trip.

"A Scotchman," he said, "played a round of golf at a famous club. Afterwards, as he was taking a shower, they asked him how he liked the course."

"It's not so bad," the Scotchman said. "I lost three balls, but I found eight."

THE MUD EEL

"They take pity on me, they do," said the Mud Eel.

Some of the insects stopped twisting and crawling about, looking from their little homes to the little home of the Mud Eel, and said, in insect language:

"Why do they take pity on you?"

"And who are 'they'?"

"They," said the Mud Eel, "are people."

"Children, too?" asked the insects.

"Children, too," the Mud Eel agreed.

"Well, now that 'they' have been explained to us you can go on with your story."

"But 'they' haven't been explained to you, for I don't understand them myself."

"How can I explain what I don't understand? People and children are a puzzle to me," the Mud Eel continued.

"I don't understand them at all."

"They talk queerly, they walk queerly, they eat strange food."

"They talk and giggle. They have funny ideas. Children go to places called schools—where they learn to spell and read and write."

"How can I explain all that?"

"I can't."

"For the life of me I don't see why they want to know how to read and spell."

"What good are such things going to do them? They aren't given meals for writing things down on a slate."

"I know we never, never would be."

"Well," said the insects and snakes, "we meant that we knew who you meant by 'they.'"

"We can't understand people ourselves."

"Certainly their ways are beyond our understanding. We don't know why they eat the food they do, why

"I Don't Understand Them."

children go to school, why they walk instead of crawl and talk instead of hiss and whisper, and sing."

"We don't know why they wear clothes and talk as they do and walk sometimes with their arms entwined with each other as they do."

"We don't understand people ourselves."

"But now tell us why the people pity you. None of us can really understand people it would seem."

"So you might as well go on with your story as best you can, leaving out such things neither or none of us can understand—such as people and their ways."

"And that includes children and their ways."

"So go on with your story, Mud Eel."

"Pray continue."

"I am put near the insects," said the Mud Eel, "and yet I belong to the snake family."

"I am a younger cousin, or distant relative of the Congo Snake, but I have no hind legs."

"And that is what bothers the people."

"The keeper tells them I have hills outside my body and they smile politely but are not much interested."

"Then he tells them that I have no hind legs, only a pair of front legs, and they say to each other:

"How very queer. Isn't that odd! How very queer! Isn't that odd!"

"Yes, they pity me and I don't want their pity."

"No, I don't want it."

"I don't need it. I am not here to be pitied."

"Ah, how often I wish I could speak people's language instead of the language of the Mud Eel and I would say to them:

"Oh, children and people, why do you think it is so queer, and pity me, because I only have one pair of legs?"

"You only have one pair of legs yourselves—and we think yours are queer."

"I think that would quiet them all right. Yes, that would make them stop thinking we were so odd."

"At least I hope it would," the Mud Eel ended.

HOME, DAD AND THE BOY

By FRANK H. CHELEY

The Bluffer Dad

THE world is full of them. He bluffs his boy,

He bluffs his boy,

He bluffs his boy,

He even fools himself into believing he is "as good as the average."

He doesn't know anything about the boy-business—and is afraid somebody, among them his own son, will find it out.

"When it comes to being a real Dad, he either skids or skidoo."

He doesn't seem to realize that you can't bluff a boy for long, and that in the eyes of a real boy a hypocrite is abominable. A boy will forgive his Dad for almost any other shortcoming.

He is constantly one thing and expects his boy to be quite another—and then laments the boy's failure from the house tops.

He does one way and directs the son along a different path.

He doesn't know that the life one leads is the lesson one teaches.

What a Bluffer Dad is, proclaims itself so loudly that the son never hears anything he has to say.

He is a poor, deluded mortal and needs to see himself as others see him.

Sweet and Sour Basis

The chemical difference between sweet and sour is probably based upon the difference in intramolecular arrangement. The psychological difference is due to the fact that the tongue contains end organs, some of which are stimulated by sweet things and others by sour. These are known as taste buds, because of the functioning of these buds, we are able to differentiate between sweet and sour.

Patterns of progress

An American home—its bathtub, breakfast foods, furnace—set down in the heart of Europe would be unmistakably an American home. An American man, the cut of his coat, the tie of his tie, the comb of his hair—walking the streets of Europe is in all his obvious tastes an American.

Advertisements stamp American homes and owners of homes with a kind of national pattern. They create desire for the same kind of things; make particular people know and want the most advanced of things. Homes—what to put in homes. People—how to dress, nourish, entertain the people. Offices—how to equip and operate offices. They set America right about radios and talcums—tell businessmen, housewives, government officials how to brush their teeth!

We cut the pattern of our personal lives and surroundings from advertisements. We keep modern only with their intimate help. We go forward with them, as we would stand still without them. ## POOR HANDWRITING

ONCE in a while THE BRAINERD DISPATCH receives copy for publication written in longhand and in such shape as to puzzle the most astute student of chirography. What causes us to wonder, in other words, colloquially expressed, "what gets our goat," is why people who murder the graceful slants of English writing should seek to be proud of the output of such a pen.

Modern business demands legible handwriting, even in a man's signature. A newspaper office loses valuable time trying to decipher handwriting. The state of Minnesota long since recognized that notaries public, like bank cashiers, are inordinately proud of illegible signatures, and so has compelled the notary, when he takes an affidavit, to add his printed signature to the written one. The state of Illinois went a step further years ago and ordered the notary's name cut in his seal.

It's because of the wave of poor handwriting bidding fair to engulf the country that the typewriter gained its position of prominence.

Schools should take it upon themselves to create a new order of things and revive legible penmanship. Don't pay so much attention to the flourishes and the shading, but give us handwriting that can be read as easily as the price tag of a bargain sale.

BIG MEN IN OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

Big men of President Coolidge's cabinet have been in our neighborhood. Secretary Jardine, of the Department of Agriculture, fished in the waters of Leech lake and caught more than the president did in New York state. As reported in the Walker Pilot, the secretary was so well pleased with the north country as a vacation place that at the reception at Glangarry he went on record as stating that he hoped to make such arrangements as would make it possible for him to return next season when he would be accompanied by Mrs. Jardine and remain a whole month.

Henry I. Cohen called on THE DISPATCH office yesterday and Henry said that another member of the Coolidge cabinet was in our vicinity. It was none other than Herbert Hoover. Out in the Park Rapids country he inspected the Glantz model dairy farm and commented on how dairying is making progress in Minnesota.

It is well and seeming and fit that the cabinet acquaint itself with our state. We have much to show them and we welcome most heartily all members of Coolidge's official family.

LUM PARK REJUVENATED

LUM park which last year showed a deficiency in this year re-suming its place as a money maker for the park board.

It is constantly gaining in public favor. Take this week, for instance. The park has been utilized for concerts, for "Achievement Day" exhibitions, picnics, dances, etc. Prominent grand lodge officers of a local lodge will banquet there.

Lum park belongs to the people and it is being used by the people. Its beauties, accommodations, recreation grounds and attractions have gained the attention of home people and out of town visitors.

The imposing entrance is fast nearing completion and is a beautiful design executed in most artistic manner. Leon E. Lum builded wisely and well when he gave the park to the city and thus in unostentatious manner gained a place in the hearts of Brainerd people. Lum park is a monument symbolizing in beautiful fashion his love for Brainerd.

We must hand a bouquet to the Superior police force. Suspecting a band of itinerant ne'er do wells as bandits, the force trailed them several days and then pounced upon them just as they were about to rob a bank. Yes, the best police business like the best medical service is now exercised in the field of preventive measures. It is better to prevent crime or illness than to wait until something serious happens and then run around the country looking for a doctor or policeman. We have no intention of associating doctors and policemen, only as in a spirit of analogy. Crime as well as disease, however, can be arrested by intelligent application of the right remedies.

We remember reading avidly Jules Verne's trip around the world in 90 days. And here, just yesterday, two business men of the United States, carrying only a handbag and a pocketfull of checks and money circle the globe in 28 days, 14 hours, 36 minutes and five seconds. The crowd welcoming them at New York delayed them in the last 15 miles of automobile trip, which caused the five seconds to appear in the record.

THE BRAINERD DISPATCH notes that Minnesota creamery butter is of so high quality and has been so effectively advertised that it is attracting thieves, who raid creameries and carry off this golden representative of real money. As Minnesota butter is like coin of the realm, creameries will be wise to follow the example of banks and take out burglar insurance.—St. Cloud Daily Journal Press.

A report comes from the East, says the Hibbing News, that the "Democrats are hopeful." Were they ever otherwise? That's one of the real thrills of being a Democrat—there's always something to hope for, even if it doesn't.

DULUTH, which has a reputation for being cool summer and winter, has staged a fine peony show, while Brainerd in a banana belt of humidity and warmth has to postpone its show until the fall season.

It's so easy to find fault. The man who really does things of a constructive nature is always the target of some fault finder. Men who do nothing, never become targets for criticism.

J*5 BUSH pitched yesterday and Brainerd glued its face to see how he fared. All Brainerd and this section of the Northwest hope he will make a good record with Pittsburgh.

LEGEND MAY NOT BE ENTIRELY FANCIFUL

The legend of the labyrinth is one of the best known of all legends in the story of Theseus, who with six other Greek youths and seven maidens, was sent into the Cretan labyrinth to face the terrible minotaur. He killed the monster, but would have been unable to find his way out of the innumerable twisting passages of the labyrinth had not Ariadne given him a skein of thread to unwind as he entered.

Until recent years this legend has been believed to be entirely fanciful, and the idea of the labyrinth suggested by a cave on the mountainside near Crossus, the ancient home of the Cretan king. Excavations at Crossus, however, have disclosed an ancient palace of labyrinthine intricacies. On its walls are pictures of boys and girls, presumably captives trained in their art, vaulting onto the back of a charging bull, and beneath the palace have been found dungeons in which the terrors may have been kept. Religious symbols called labrys, shaped like a double ax, are also on the walls, hence the palace may have got its name of labyrinth from worship which the labrys typifies.—Kansas City Star.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN PUT MORE GENTLY

H. L. Mencken was complaining about an attack that had been made on one of his essays.

"This kind of criticism," he went on, rather plaintively, "makes me feel as bad as the farmer's wife."

"A farmer's wife sat with her husband looking at the under ads in the back of a magazine. The ads were illustrated with photographs of the loveliest girls. In silk stockings and high-heeled shoes these girls, wearing diaphanous and costly undies, lounged before mirrors or reclined on vast couches or smoked cigarettes and drank tea with their young husbands."

"The farmer's wife was thrilled. She pointed to a ravishing girl in the most ravishing undies and said:

"Don't you think them undies would become me, Bill?"

"Yep," Bill grunted, "and so would that shape."

Largest Round Table

The table of the Knights of the Round Table in London is said to be the world's largest round table. It stands in a room of a famous Strand restaurant there. Consisting of a single cut across the trunk of a gigantic Spanish mahogany tree. It is also the largest one-piece table in the world. In fact, it is so large that, when the restaurant was being rebuilt some years ago it could not be moved, and the room had to be built around it. The table was first exhibited at the great exposition in 1851. Though it is seventy-five years old, it is young when compared to the Knights that owns it. The order of the Knights of the Round Table was formed in 1720.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Perpetual Motion?

A Cape Town inventor claims to have produced a working model of a machine that is capable of running a commercial engine or any kind of pump for an indefinite time without outside fuel for driving purposes.

It is quite a new application of existing mechanical laws, and runs entirely by its own volition. The only cost to its user will be for the replacement of worn parts, a practically negligible point. It will continue working until stopped voluntarily.

Italians Play Basket Ball

Basket ball, unknown in Italy before the war, bids fair to become the national game of the country, says Samuel Ybarogoyen, physical director of the Turin Y. M. C. A., on leave in this country. A national basketball federation of fifty clubs, corresponding to the A. A. U., has been formed. Last year 2,000 members received cards entitling them to participate in the national championship games.

Good Work

Walter Hagen, the golf champion, told a golf story at a dinner in St. Petersburg during his Florida trip.

"A Scotchman," he said, "played a round of golf at a famous club. Afterwards, as he was taking a shower, they asked him how he liked the course."

"It's not so bad," the Scotchman said. "I lost three balls, but I found eight."

THE MUD EEL

"They take pity on me, they do," said the Mud Eel.

Some of the insects stopped twisting and crawling about, looking from their little homes to the little home of the Mud Eel, and said, in insect language:

"Why do they take pity on you?" "And who are 'they'?"

"They," said the Mud Eel, "are people."

"Children, too?" asked the insects.

"Children, too," the Mud Eel agreed.

"Well, now that 'they' have been explained to us you can go on with your story."

"But 'they' haven't been explained to you, for I don't understand them myself."

"How can I explain what I don't understand? People and children are a puzzle to me," the Mud Eel continued.

"I don't understand them at all."

"They talk queerly, they walk queerly, they eat strange food."

"They talk and giggle. They have funny ideas. Children go to places called schools—where they learn to spell and read and write."

"How can I explain all that?" "I can't."

"For the life of me I don't see why they want to know how to read and spell and write."

"What good are such things going to do them? They aren't given meals for writing things down on a slate."

"I know we never, never would be."

"Well," said the insects and snakes, "we meant that we knew who you meant by 'they.'"

"We can't understand people ourselves."

"Certainly their ways are beyond our understanding. We don't know why they eat the food they do, why children go to school, why they walk instead of crawl and talk instead of hiss and whisper, and sing.

"I Don't Understand Them."

"We don't know why they wear clothes and talk as they do and walk sometimes with their arms entwined with each other as they do."

"We don't understand people ourselves."

"But now tell us why the people pity you. None of us can really understand people it would seem."

"So you might as well go on with your story as best you can, leaving out such things neither or none of us can understand—such as people and their ways."

"And that includes children and their ways."

"So go on with your story, Mud Eel."

"Pray continue."

"I am put near the insects," said the Mud Eel, "and yet I belong to the snake family."

"I am a younger cousin, or distant relative of the Congo Snake, but I have no hind legs."

"And that is what bothers the people."

"The keeper tells them I have pills outside my body and they smile politely but are not much interested."

"Then he tells them that I have no hind legs, only a pair of front legs, and they say to each other:

"How very queer. Isn't that odd! How very queer! Isn't that odd!"

"Yes, they pity me and I don't want their pity."

"No, I don't want it."

"I don't need it. I am not here to be pitied."

"Ah, how often I wish I could speak people's language instead of the language of the Mud Eel and I would say to them:

"Oh, children and people, why do you think it is so queer, and pity me, because I only have one pair of legs?"

"You only have one pair of legs yourselves—and we think yours are queer."

"I think that would quiet them all right. Yes, that would make them stop thinking we were so odd."

"At least I hope it would," the Mud Eel ended.

Jean Would Walk

Little three-year-old Jean went out for a walk with her father one day. As they started to return her father asked, "Shall we walk back, Jean, or take the street car?"

"Oh, I ruzzer walk, daddy," she replied, "if ou' will tarry me."

HOME, DAD AND THE BOY

By FRANK H. CHELEY

The Bluffer Dad

THE world is full of them. He bluffs his boy, He bluffs society, He bluffs his God, He even fools himself into believing he is "as good as the average."

He doesn't know anything about the boy-business—and is afraid somebody, among them his own son, will find it out.

"When it comes to being a real Dad, he either skids or skidoos."

He doesn't seem to realize that you can't bluff a boy for long, and that in the eyes of a real boy a hypocrite is abominable. A boy will forgive his Dad for almost any other shortcoming.

He is constantly one thing and expects his boy to be quite another—and then laments the boy's failure from the house top.

He does one way and directs the son along a different path.

He doesn't know that the life one leads is the lesson one teaches.

What a Bluffer Dad is, proclaims itself so loudly that the son never hears anything he has to say.

He is a poor, deluded mortal and needs to see himself as others see him.

Sweet and Sour Basis

The chemical difference between sweet and sour is probably based upon the difference in intramolecular arrangement. The psychological difference is due to the fact that the tongue contains end organs, some of which are stimulated by sweet things and others by sour. These are known as taste buds, because of the functioning of these buds, we are able to differentiate between sweet and sour.

Posture is a dynamic rather than a static thing; it is a by-product of well-balanced and vigorous muscular health and activity. The wild animal and the savage are commonly lithe, supple and quick, yet they have no disciplinarians constantly taking them to task for their slovenly habits of standing and sitting.

Cool colors should be used in rooms having brilliant sunlight. Small rooms seem larger when decorated in cool shades. Cool colors are most suitable for informal rooms, cottage living rooms, bedrooms, nurseries, etc. They are, of course, best for rooms that are used chiefly in summer.

Patterns of progress

An American home—its bathtub, breakfast foods, furnace—set down in the heart of Europe would be unmistakably an American home. An American man, the cut of his coat, the tie of his tie, the comb of his hair—walking the streets of Europe is in all his obvious tastes an American.

Advertisements stamp American homes and owners of homes with a kind of national pattern. They create desire for the same kind of things; make particular people know and want the most advanced of things. Homes—what to put in homes. People—how to dress, nourish, entertain the people. Offices—how to equip and operate offices. They set America right about radios and talcums—tell businessmen, housewives, government officials how to brush their teeth!

We cut the pattern of our personal lives and surroundings from advertisements. We keep modern only with their intimate help. We go forward with them, as we would stand still without them. We form our tastes and discriminate values by using their truths. Advertisements offer us patterns of progress that mean quick steps to the fore.

DR. ROY SMITH'S SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

ROADS AND RUBES

Reliable estimates indicate that the United States will spend more than $1,000,000,000 on the building and maintenance of rural roads during the year 1926.

This means the disappearance of the "rube" from American life. You may be able to find him on the stage, in vaudeville, in the movies or between the pages of alleged humorous magazines, but not on the farms.

The "rube" is a product of isolation and the spending of one billion of dollars for rural roads means an end of isolation. The American farm from now on lives on a main travelled highway.

When the day's work is done he is only a few miles away from entertainment. If he prefers to sit by his own fireside he may read his daily paper delivered by the rural routes, get his daily market reports over the radio, or listen to the best music and lectures that America can offer anyone.

His children are seldom more than twenty minutes away from an excellent high school. There they are being trained in all the social graces, taught the fundamental principles of culture and living a life as broad and beautiful as that enjoyed by any of the city children. On commencement day it is impossible to distinguish between the youths from the farms and those from the city.

The co-operative marketing associations have taught him the art of working with other men. The good road makes it possible for him to attend frequent meetings, participate in the discussions and become a part of the busy world of thinking and action.

Rural roads put him in easy touch with distant markets. If his local merchant cannot supply him with the goods he wants a couple of hours drive will bring him to a city of twenty thousand or more where he can buy anything he wants.

The modern farmer is not easily imposed upon. He is a poor customer for gold-brick merchants. Bankers' figures show that the average city dweller is much the easier victim of the con man.

Improved rural roads mean consolidated schools, less loss in crops, advantageous marketing. The hard surfaced road has done much to give the American farmer his opportunity as a business man.

It is true that the rural church has had hard sledding, but the farmer can reach the village or city church with greater ease over good roads than he could get to the rural church a few years ago through the mud.

Good roads make good citizens. The election booth is seldom more than five minutes away from the kitchen door and the farmer is voting, and rapidly learning his political lessons.

One billion of dollars spent for rural roads means that the American farmer is now living as close to the world as the city dweller. He no longer lives alone, astride his plow. He is on a highway where "the race of men go by."

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, July 17. — (UP)—Stockings are the most expensive luxuries in the feminine wardrobe today. The underfed cash girl and the society woman may wear vastly different frocks and hats but their stockings are of the same chiffon texture. The society woman wears a stocking as an inconspicuous part of her costume whereas the cash girl lets her silken legs overpower her cheap little frock.

No girl today wears cotton stockings and very few of them wear those which have cotton tops and silk lowers, this being due to the prevalence of short skirts. It seems incredible that the little Miss who earns $12 a week can afford to wear stockings costing at least $1.35 a pair. Yet she does wear them and she buys on the average of one pair every two weeks.

Hose with mended runs are entirely taboo. Most of us are unaware of the sacrifices a pair of chiffon stockings cost these pretty legged working girls. One young woman informed me that one-sixth of her wages were spent on stockings. She insisted that she couldn't hold her position as a saleswoman in a fashionable gown house if she wore cheap stockings or stockings that had been mended. Standing on her feet all day caused runs from the garters downward and once the runs appeared, she had to buy a new pair.

Where the average woman complains about the number of pairs of stockings she buys each month, the working girl might also add the complaint of an empty stomach since many of them skip on their lunches to provide silk hosiery for their legs. Many shops guarantee their stockings but these so-called guaranteed stockings are too expensive for the working girl. The stockings are only replaced when the tear or run comes from a defect in the stocking, in most cases.

Mending machines can now mend runs so that they are practically unnoticeable but the mending costs from 50 cents to $1.00 which is beyond the means of the working girl. There is no way to beat the high cost of stockings.

Buying three pairs exactly alike at one time will give one the use of four pairs in the long run. Washing stockings before wearing them and while they are new and washing them after each wearing will add to the lasting qualities. One also saves a bit by buying several pairs at once, since shops make a special price on three pairs. As a rule, stockings cost the working girl around $50 a year which is perhaps more than her winter coat costs her.

Narcotic May Arrest Ravages of Old Age

The invention of efficient and harmless narcotics for anesthesia and pain alleviation is one of the most important tasks of modern science. Recently Dr. Maurice Sandoz of the University of Lausanne, Switzerland, succeeded in producing a substance called "trician," which, it is claimed, is remarkable for its rapid narcotic effects.

On cold-blooded creatures, such as fishes, frogs or salamanders, two to six minutes in a one-tenth per cent solution of trician, induces total insensibility.

A solution of trician diluted beyond 10 per cent will reduce the rate of cell division in animal organisms, particularly the development of the embryo from the egg. By use of a very weak solution it is possible to keep frog eggs for several weeks without hatching. Untreated eggs left in pure water for the same period would turn into adult frogs.

These experiments, says Popular Science Monthly, have suggested a possible use of trician in arresting the ravages of old age.

New England Atmosphere with 1926 Improvements

ANY one who has ever motored thru the quaint sleepy towns of New England has fallen in love with the small houses that abound in that section of the country—neat, white unpretentious and with a touch of reserve about them. Just such a house is the one pictured here, equally well adapted for town or country.

It may be built on a thirty-foot lot if necessary. In this case, the large porch and entrance porch change places, and one enters into the hall instead of right into the living room, an advantage in many people's estimation.

The house is sturdily built and has an exterior of wood siding. Level with the second floor windows in front are distinctive stucco panels. The roof is of stained shingles, preferably moss green, in keeping with the window shutters.

This is a particularly economical house to build, next to the one that is absolutely square. A square house encloses the most floor area with the least wall area and is, therefore, perhaps the most economical of all to build but it is very difficult to give architectural beauty or an interesting floor plan to a perfectly square house. A dwelling of the compact style shown here is easy to heat, especially when the specifications call for insulation throughout with celotex, which will check heat leakage in winter and keep the house cool in summer.

The four rooms inside will meet the needs of the average small family. The large combined dining and living room occupies most of the first floor. This room has windows on three sides and the large porch opening off one of these. It is safe to say that the open fireplace in this room will never remain empty as long as the thermometer gives a shadow of an excuse for its use, because it is so easy to throw on just a few pieces of kindling to make a cheery blaze for the evening meal.

The furniture for this combined room should be rather carefully chosen. Of course, a regular dining room set would be out of the question. There must be harmony between the two types of furniture. Where a china closet is used, it should have solid doors and be as inconspicuous as possible. A substantial gate-leg or drop-leaf table is preferable to a regular table in this room.

An interesting arrangement would be to use a long, narrow Italian refectory on each side to match it, and dining room variety. The benches slip under the table when not in use, while the chairs take their place as regular members of the living room furniture.

Then, too, meals can on hurried occasions, always be served in the kitchen where there is room for a table and chairs or built-in seat. This room is of unusual proportions—fifteen by seven feet and will require the fewest possible number of steps. Cupboards, sink and refrigerator have all been conveniently placed. The stairs, service entrance and hallway are grouped together.

Upstairs are two good-sized bedrooms, both big enough for twin beds if necessary. Each has a remarkably large closet, six feet deep and with shelves for storage. Two windows are in each room. The bathroom has a built-in towel closet, while a generous linen closet is found in the hall.

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

ROADS AND RUBES

Reliable estimates indicate that the United States will spend more than $1,000,000,000 on the building and maintenance of rural roads during the year 1926.

This means the disappearance of the "rube" from American life. You may be able to find him on the stage, in vaudeville, in the movies or between the pages of alleged humorous magazines, but not on the farms.

The "rube" is a product of isolation and the spending of one billion of dollars for rural roads means an end of isolation. The American farm from now on lives on a main travelled highway.

When the day's work is done he is only a few miles away from entertainment. If he prefers to sit by his own fireside he may read his daily paper delivered by the rural routes, get his daily market reports over the radio, or listen to the best music and lectures that America can offer anyone.

His children are seldom more than twenty minutes away from an excellent high school. There they are being trained in all the social graces, taught the fundamental principles of culture and living a life as broad and beautiful as that enjoyed by any of the city children. On commencement day it is impossible to distinguish between the youths from the farms and those from the city.

The co-operative marketing associations have taught him the art of working with other men. The good road makes it possible for him to attend frequent meetings, participate in the discussions and become a part of the busy world of thinking and action.

Rural roads put him in easy touch with distant markets. If his local merchant cannot supply him with the goods he wants a couple of hours drive will bring him to a city of twenty thousand or more where he can buy anything he wants.

The modern farmer is not easily imposed upon. He is a poor customer for gold-brick merchants. Bankers' figures show that the average city dweller is much the easier victim of the con man.

Improved rural roads mean consolidated schools, less loss in crops, advantageous marketing. The hard surfaced road has done much to give the American farmer his opportunity as a business man.

It is true that the rural church has had hard sledding, but the farmer can reach the village or city church with greater ease over good roads than he could get to the rural church a few years ago through the mud.

Good roads make good citizens. The election booth is seldom more than five minutes away from the kitchen door and the farmer is voting, and rapidly learning his political lessons.

One billion of dollars spent for rural roads means that the American farmer is now living as close to the world as the city dweller. He no longer lives alone, astride his plow. He is on a highway where "the race of men go by."

JACK DELANEY OUTFIGHTS BERLENBACH

FRENCH CANUCK GIVES QUIETUS TO TITLE HOLDER

45,000 SPECTATORS SEE "BATTLE OF AGES" AT BROOKLYN BALL PARK

SCORE IN BASEBALL LANGUAGE, DELANEY 10, BERLENBACH 2, 3 ROUNDS EVEN

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) New York, July 17. — One tall, handsome French Canuck, known to his parents as Orville Chappelaine, and registered in the fight records as Jack Delaney, checked out of his hotel in the "roaring forties" this morning and started back to Bridgeport, Conn., hearing the crown of the world's light heavyweight champion.

For one of the few times that a world's championship has changed hands on the decision of a referee and two judges in New York, there was no experts or losing betters at the train shed to hurl razberries at a new champion.

Delaney so far outfought, outboxed and outsmarted Paul Berlenbach in a 15-round bout last night in the Brooklyn ball park that thousands of the 45,000 spectators who had paid a half million dollars to see the "battle of the ages," left their seats at the end of the 10th round to beat the rush for the limited transportation facilities resulting from the strike.

The score in baseball language, was: Delaney 10, Berlenbach 2, with 3 rounds even.

Delaney by the widest of margins won the first, second, fourth, fifth, seventh, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th rounds.

Berlenbach had a slight edge in the 8th and 10th rounds.

The other rounds were called even simply because a champion, even a falling champion, should be entitled to a little consideration.

The decision of the referee and the two judges was unanimous that Delaney had won by a mile and there was no dispute.

Even Berlenbach, good sportsman that he always has been, gave his victorious rival a warm handshake after the final bell and said:

"Jack, you took it, good luck!"

Delaney with the cheers of the multitude roaring in his ears, smiled a real smile and replied:

"It's all in the game, Paul. This must have been my night."

From the tap of the first gong, that brought those thousands to the rims of their chairs, until the final rap on the bell that sent two weary fighters to their corners, there never was a doubt as to the outcome.

Delaney hit Berlenbach on the jaw with left hooks, right hooks and left and right uppercuts. In the fifth a left hook dropped the champion to his knees but he was on his feet and tearing back in on the attack before the count was started.

Berlenbach's right eye was damaged and his chin split and Delaney's lips were cut and bruised and his body was punched red from the hard short jabs that Berlenbach landed at close quarters.

With a weight advantage estimated at from 10 to 12 pounds, experts figured that Delaney's jinx was still with him and that he could not withstand 15 rounds of body punishment.

Delaney's brains overcame the weight advantage, however.

Berlenbach kept watching and waiting for the right hand to the jaw that had knocked him out three years ago and Delaney crossed him by shooting to the body.

In the second round Delaney started pounding his punches to the body and with two terrible blows under the heart he took most of Berlenbach's steam out of him.

Delaney was in danger only once and that was in the 10th round. When he came to his corner after the ninth round he looked down at some friends in the press box and said:

"It's about even so far, isn't it?"

"Even?" one of his seconds shouted. "Even, hell! You're winning from here to Jersey."

Delaney took nothing for granted. He wanted to win by a knockout and he went out in the 10th and started swapping punches with Berlenbach and was taking more than he was giving.

"Box, Jack! Step back! Take it easy!" his corner shouted in a panic. Delaney perhaps did not hear but a hard left hook to his head awakened him and he went back to his beautiful boxing.

Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, said after the fight that Delaney had fractured the thumb of his left hand in the sixth round.

N. E. TEAM MAKES SIX RUNS IN 2ND TO BEAT Y, 6 TO 3

SEVEN HITS MADE BY WINNERS IN THAT FRAME TO SCORE ALL RUNS

VAN WALK HAS GOOD SUPPORT IN PINCHES, WINS FINE CONTEST

Game Monday, 6 P. M. N. E. vs. B. A. C. Game Tuesday evening between Y. M. C. A. and Seals postponed because of Lions-Rotary game that evening

The gentlemen from Northeast scored a fine victory over the first half championship Y. M. C. A. team last night, the score being 6 to 3, all of the N. E. counters coming in the second inning, when ten men faced Sandgren and seven of them landed on his delivery for safe blows.

The second inning was a weird frame for the Y team and their backers. At the time they were two runs in the lead, and had set down the N. E. front row without trouble in the initial frame. Then things began to happen, and before the curtain was lowered, seven hits had dropped in safe places, and six pairs of feet had dented the registering rubber.

Howard started the melee with a single, followed by Jarbo and Kaufman in a row. Elling whiffed the air, then Holman and Van Walk added their bit by planting safe drives. Al Swanson forced a mate, but H. Swanson and Then singled, to bring in the final runs. Outside of the second inning, only three hits were made off Sandgren, one in the fourth, another in the fifth, and the third in the sixth. He struck out seven to Van Walk's one, and gave but one base on balls.

Van Walk pitched well, allowing eight hits, which he kept fairly well scattered. He was aided by two double plays that stopped rallies.

The Y scored first, in the first half of the second inning. Dillan hit safely to left, and went to second when Van Walk hit Ericsson with a pitched ball, and then stole third. Ericsson taking second a moment later. Brown made an infield hit, scoring Dillan, and putting Ericsson on third. Ericsson scored on Thompson's hit to right, but Anderson forced Brown at the plate. Bollens lined to right field, but fast work by Kaufman caught him at first base.

In the sixth inning Ericsson hit safely, went to third on Brown's second hit of the day, and scored while Brown was being thrown out at second.

Every man on the N. E. team hit safely, Jarbo getting two, while every man on the Y team except Orth and Bollens hit safely, Brown getting two hits. Anderson hit safely on his last trip to the plate, this being the 12th consecutive game in which he has hit safely. Bollens was stopped after hitting in eleven straight games.

JACK DELANEY OUTFIGHTS BERLENBACH

FRENCH CANUCK GIVES QUIETUS TO TITLE HOLDER

45,000 SPECTATORS SEE "BATTLE OF AGES" AT BROOKLYN BALL PARK

SCORE IN BASEBALL LANGUAGE, DELANEY 10, BERLENBACH 2, 3 ROUNDS EVEN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 17. — One tall, handsome French Canuck, known to his parents as Orville Chappdelaine, and registered in the fight records as Jack Delaney, checked out of his hotel in the "roaring forties" this morning and started back to Bridgeport, Conn., bearing the crown of the world's light heavyweight champion.

For one of the few times that a world's championship has changed hands on the decision of a referee and two judges in New York, there was no experts or losing betters at the train shed to hurl razberries at a new champion.

Delaney so far outfought, outboxed and outsmarted Paul Berlenbach in a 15-round bout last night in the Brooklyn ball park that thousands of the 45,000 spectators who had paid a half million dollars to see the "battle of the ages," left their seats at the end of the 10th round to beat the rush for the limited transportation facilities resulting from the strike.

The score in baseball language, was: Delaney 10, Berlenbach 2, with 3 rounds even.

Delaney by the widest of margins won the first, second, fourth, fifth, seventh, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th rounds.

Berlenbach had a slight edge in the 8th and 10th rounds.

The other rounds were called even simply because a champion, even a falling champion, should be entitled to a little consideration.

The decision of the referee and the two judges was unanimous that Delaney had won by a mile and there was no dispute.

Even Berlenbach, good sportsman that he always has been, gave his victorious rival a warm handshake after the final bell and said:

"Jack, you took it, good luck!"

Delaney with the cheers of the multitude roaring in his ears, smiled a real smile and replied:

"It's all in the game, Paul. This must have been my night."

From the tap of the first gong, that brought those thousands to the rims of their chairs, until the final rap on the bell that sent two weary fighters to their corners, there never was a doubt as to the outcome.

Berlenbach's right eye was damaged and his chin split and Delaney's lips were cut and bruised and his body was punched red from the hard short jabs that Berlenbach landed at close quarters.

With a weight advantage estimated at from 10 to 12 pounds, experts figured that Delaney's jinx was still with him and that he could not withstand 15 rounds of body punishment. Delaney's brains overcame the weight advantage, however.

Berlenbach kept watching and waiting for the right hand to the jaw that had knocked him out three years ago and Delaney crossed him by shooting to the body.

In the second round Delaney started pounding his punches to the body and with two terrible blows under the heart he took most of Berlenbach's steam out of him.

Delaney was in danger only once and that was in the 10th round. When he came to his corner after the ninth round he looked down at some friends in the press box and said:

"It's about even so far, isn't it?"

Delaney took nothing for granted. He wanted to win by a knockout and he went out in the 10th and started swapping punches with Berlenbach and was taking more than he was giving.

"Box, Jack! Step back! Take it easy!" his corner shouted in a panic. Delaney perhaps did not hear but a hard left hook to his head awakened him and he went back to his beautiful boxing.

Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, said after the fight that Delaney had fractured the thumb of his left hand in the sixth round.

ILLNESS OF BATTERY CAUSES CALLING OFF GAME HERE TOMORROW

BRAINERD TO PLAY THE RANGE TEAM INSTEAD ON LOCAL DIAMOND

The manager of the Isle baseball team called up this morning to cancel the game between that team and the Brainerd N. P. city nine. Both members of the Isle battery are on the sick list, it was stated, and the team is unable to line up a high class battery for the game.

After Managers Whiting and Peterson had kept the wires hot all afternoon trying to line up another team to take the place of Isle, they succeeded in getting Crosby to cross bats with the locals on the local diamond tomorrow afternoon.

Florida to Build a Race Course to Cost Million

A race course to cost approximately $1,000,000 will be built at Pompano, Fla., midway between Miami and Palm Beach, by Kentucky, Maryland and New York turfmen, Thomas R. Cromwell, secretary of the Thoroughbred Horse association, announces.

L. T. Cooper and L. N. Conrad of Dayton, Ohio, and Florida; Paul Beaton, real estate developer at Miami; Frank Keener, principal owner of the Brooklyn Eagle, and a number of other prominent turfmen are backing the project. Mr. Cromwell is to be secretary and general manager of the new plant.

Construction of the plant will be begun within a short time on a tract of 180 acres that has been acquired for the race course.

Oss Was Tough Target

Arnold Oss of Minnesota roamed the football fields about six seasons ago. He roamed them virtually as he pleased, being one of the greatest backs the Middle West ever turned out. Oss was fast once past the line of scrimmage, and he usually got by with it. He was a tough target to haul down, in fact about as easy to toss down as an antelope.

FRED M. KOOP, 40, DIED HERE TODAY

Born in City, Resided Here All His Life; Had Grocery Store up Till Time of Sickness

WAS ALDERMAN FOR 3 TERMS

Was Member of Brainerd Elks Lodge; Funeral to be Held Tuesday Morning

The death took place at the St. Joseph's hospital at 8:30 a. m. today of Fred M. Koop, 323 North 8th street, in his 40th year, after sickness of nearly five years.

Mr. Koop was born in Brainerd and resided here all his life. Up to the time of his illness he operated a grocery store on the corner of 7th and Laurel street. He was a member of the Elks lodge and a member of the Catholic church. He was alderman for the second ward for three years and was president of the Brainerd City council for a period.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Koop, of Brainerd, six brothers, Edward, A. L., Earl, L. P., Dan, of Brainerd; and Harry of Crosby; and two sisters, Miss Loran Koop, of Superior, and Mrs. Milton Mahlum, of St. Cloud. His wife predeceased him six years ago.

The funeral will take place Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock from the family residence and at 8:20 from the St. Francis Catholic church. Interment will be made at Evergreen cemetery.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS NEARLY ALL GOOD

Minnesota trunk highways, now in the heaviest traffic season, are nearly all good, according to the weekly condition report issued by the State Highway department today. Detailed reports covering conditions of the so-called "Babcock roads" marked with the official yellow star, follow, insofar as they refer to roads in the Brainerd lake region:

T. H. No. 2—Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit and Moorhead—264 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Tamarack, fair, good—McGregor, good—Aitkin, good, fair—Brainerd, good—Wadena, good—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca, Garrison and Brainerd—102 miles—Generally good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—97 miles—Generally good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—66 miles—St. Cloud, paved—Belle Prairie, detour, good—Brainerd.

TO REPORT ON CONFERENCE

Young People's Conference For Presbyterian Churches Held at Paynesville

SIX LOCAL REPRESENTATIVES

Conference Had Courses on Different Lines of Church Work in the State

Representatives of the Brainerd Presbyterian church who attended the young people's conference at Lake Koronis, Paynesville, Minn., July 5-11, will each take part in the programs Sunday evening at the church when the conference report will be made.

Those who attended from here were: Ellen Dillan, Georgia Brown, Mable McKay, Mark Patterson, Hugh Patterson, and the pastor Alexander G. Patterson.

About 170 young people from all over the state were in attendance at the conference. The best leadership that could be secured directed them. Courses were offered on the Bible, Missions, Young Peoples Methods, Sabbath School work, and the program of the church.

DOCTORS' CHILDREN IN HIGH POSITIONS

More daughters of physicians are found in successful authorship than in any other line of work, it has been shown by a recent investigation of the careers followed by doctors' children. They are prominent also in the arts, in philanthropy and humanitarian work, in educational and library work and in literature, in which last they exceed the men in number.

Many sons of doctors are, most naturally, sculptors. There are quite a number of musicians and singers whose fathers were physicians, including Frank and Walter Damosch, Marguerita Silva, Godowsky, Fritz Scheff, Kreisler and Sophie Braslau. The actors and dramatists are not nearly so numerous; among them are Sir Charles Wyndham, Sol Smith Russell, Sothern, Augustus Thomas, Elsie De Wolfe and Rachel Crothers.

The list shows very few inventors. Manufacturing and business show few sons of the medical profession, but finance has quite a long list, including 120 bank presidents and heads of 20 insurance companies.

12 MILES PAVED ON HIGHWAY NO. 27

Contractors Laying Concrete on an Average of 1200 Feet Per Day

WORK PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Record Reported For One Day's Achievement Was Laying of 1,403 Feet of Concrete

Laying concrete at an average of 1,200 feet a day and attaining a record recently of laying 1,403 feet in one day, the concrete paving from Belle Prairie to Brainerd is fast progressing. It was announced today from the office of the State Highway Department here.

The paving when complete will link Brainerd and the Twin Cities in one complete line of pavement road. When completed a big celebration is planned in Brainerd at which many state and county highway officials will take part in.

Close to 12 miles of paving have already been laid, it was announced today. Ostrand and Hallett, of Crosby, are the contractors.

Officers Elected Today and Annual Reports Are Read

The opening day for the district Luther League convention which is being held at Crosby July 16, 17 and 18, was conspicuous for its large gathering of young people, over 60 delegates being registered from the two districts. Rev. August Samuelson of Brainerd gave an eloquent address at the opening service last night.

Today reports were read and the following officers for the coming year were elected:

President—Rev. Arnold Thoren, Crosby.

Vice President—Rev. O. G. Berg, Milaca.

Secretary—Myrtle Anderson, Crosby.

Treasurer—Ellen Anderson, Rennieby.

Statistician—Engrid Lillquist, St. Cloud.

It was voted and decided to give financial support to the Bethage home at Axtell, Neb., a home for incurables, and also to the Bible Institute at St. Paul.

This afternoon an outing is being held at Hamlet lake and this evening a program will be rendered at the Lutheran church by representatives of the different leagues.

Tomorrow services will be held at 10:30 A. M. and a special program will be given in the afternoon. Both will be held in the armory.

Rev. H. P. Johnson of Minneapolis will speak and music will be rendered by the church choirs of Brainerd, Milaca and Upsala.

BRING INJURED FOX FOR TREATMENT

Representatives of Wanakiwin Fur Farm Visit Dr. R. A. Hallquist

FARM ON WIGWAM BAY

Consists of 800 Acres and Owners Raise Foxes, Sheep, Holstein Cattle, Etc.

Representatives of the Wanakiwin (Chippewa for "Place of Peace") fur farm, were in the city this morning with a small silver fox that had been injured by the wire fencing of its cage. It was nearly three months old and an examination by Dr. R. A. Hallquist proved that it had sustained no serious injuries.

The farm which has been in operation for the past four years is owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Olmsted and is situated on a large point near Wigwam bay on Mille Lacs Lake, on highway No. 18 and half way between Vineland and Midland.

The farm consists of 800 acres which is uncultivated and practically wild but for three acres that are specially prepared for the silver foxes which at present number 60. A small number of Karacul sheep from which the popular Persian lamb is made are also kept.

According to the representative, fur farming is a great business, the only livestock business that pays. There was a 110 per cent increase in silver foxes since last year and there is a large demand for breeding purposes and which brings in tremendous returns. A pair of the foxes sell for $1,500, while a good pelt sells from $300 to $500.

A new ranch is being contemplated, which will have 101 all steel pens built in a circular formation stretching along the lake shore as moisture is an important factor in the producing of good fur. The pens will be amply shaded by trees and enough clearing provided to establish the safety and well being of the animals.

A regular farm is kept in conjunction with that of the silver fox, specializing in the breeding of Holstein cattle.

EIGHT MILES OF TARVIA COMPLETE

Work on Highway No. 19 From Nisswa Undergoing Fast Operation

GRAVELLING IS DONE

Road is Not Blocked But More Convenient to Take the Merrifield Road

Close to eight miles of Tarvia have been laid on Highway No. 19 leading from Nisswa to Brainerd, it was reported today from the office of the State Highway Department here.

In order to complete the work, 15 miles of tarvia must be laid. The road is also being gravelled a short distance out of Brainerd.

The road is open for travel but it would be more convenient if the motorists would take the inland trail by way of the Merrifield road, it was stated by E. W. Moulster, head of the State Highway Department here.

FRED M. KOOP, 40, DIED HERE TODAY

Born in City, Resided Here All His Life; Had Grocery Store up Till Time of Sickness

WAS ALDERMAN FOR 3 TERMS

Was Member of Brainerd Elks Lodge; Funeral to be Held Tuesday Morning

The death took place at the St. Joseph's hospital at 8:30 a. m. today of Fred M. Koop, 323 North 8th street, in his 40th year, after sickness of nearly five years.

Mr. Koop was born in Brainerd and resided here all his life. Up to the time of his illness he operated a grocery store on the corner of 7th and Laurel street. He was a member of the Elks lodge and a member of the Catholic church. He was alderman for the second ward for three years and was president of the Brainerd City council for a period.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Koop, of Brainerd, six brothers, Edward, A. L., Earl, L. P., Dan, of Brainerd; and Harry of Crosby; and two sisters, Miss Loran Koop, of Superior, and Mrs. Milton Mahlum, of St. Cloud. His wife predeceased him six years ago.

The funeral will take place Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock from the family residence and at 8:20 from the St. Francis Catholic church. Interment will be made at Evergreen cemetery.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS NEARLY ALL GOOD

Minnesota trunk highways, now in the heaviest traffic season, are nearly all good, according to the weekly condition report issued by the State Highway department today. Detailed reports covering conditions of the so-called "backbone roads" marked with the official yellow star, follow, insofar as they refer to roads in the Brainerd lake region:

T. H. No. 2—Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit and Moorhead—264 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Tamarack, fair, good—McGregor, good—Aitkin, good, fair—Brainerd, good—Wadena, good—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca, Garrison and Brainerd—102 miles—Generally good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—97 miles—Generally good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—66 miles—St. Cloud, paved—Belle Prairie, detour, good—Brainerd.

SIX LOCAL REPRESENTATIVES

Conference Had Courses on Different Lines of Church Work in the State

Representatives of the Brainerd Presbyterian church who attended the young people's conference at Lake Koronis, Paynesville, Minn., July 5-11, will each take part in the programs Sunday evening at the church when the conference report will be made.

Those who attended from here were: Ellen Dillan, Georgia Brown, Mable McKay, Mark Patterson, Hugh Patterson, and the pastor Alexander G. Patterson.

About 170 young people from all over the state were in attendance at the conference. The best leadership that could be secured directed them. Courses were offered on the Bible, Missions, Young Peoples Methods, Sabbath School work, and the program of the church.

DOCTORS' CHILDREN IN HIGH POSITIONS

More daughters of physicians are found in successful authorship than in any other line of work, it has been shown by a recent investigation of the careers followed by doctors' children. They are prominent also in the arts, in philanthropy and humanitarian work, in educational and library work and in literature, in which last they exceed the men in number.

Many sons of doctors are, most naturally, sculptors. There are quite a number of musicians and singers whose fathers were physicians, including Frank and Walter Damsch, Marguerita Sylva, Godowsky, Fritz Scheff, Kreisler and Sophie Braslau. The actors and dramatists are not nearly so numerous; among them are Sir Charles Wyndham, Sir Smith Russell, Sothorn, Augustus Thomas, Elsie De Wolfe and Rachel Crothers.

The list shows very few inventors. Manufacturing and business show few sons of the medical profession, but finance has quite a long list, including 120 bank presidents and heads of 20 insurance companies.

INDUSTRIAL STOCK SHOWS STRENGTH

New York, July 17—(UP)—Industrial stocks closed the week with a burst of strength which completely put to rout the bear crowd. This demonstration was led by United States Steel and General Motors which advanced simultaneously to the highest levels on record in an urgent buying movement. So rapid was the rise that it gave birth to some wild stories concerning the financial plight of big operators who had been fighting the recovery from the March break. The market closed higher.

RICHARD DIX AND ALYCE MILLS IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "SAY IT AGAIN"

Dix Distributes Laughs in Wholesale Quantities

Here's a laughable situation.

Richard Dix, in his latest Paramount comedy, "Say It Again," which comes to the Lyceum Sunday and Monday is presented as a young man who attempts to find the pretty nurse who took care of him when he was a wounded soldier. He follows her trail to Spexonia and enters as the Crown Prince's body guard. The latter is returning to a native country he has never seen. And Chester Conklin, as the Prince, gets all the comedy there is, from the role.

On the day they go down Spexonia's main street, Conklin sees a man about to throw a bomb. Thinking discretion to be better than valor, he ducks from the carriage.

Dix, figuratively speaking, is left to "hold the reins."

Wallace Beery Knows No Screen Failures

Listing the motion pictures in which Wallace Beery has been one of the chief players is like listing most of the screen's outstanding successes.

Beery, possibly the most famous character actor today, has never been associated with a film failure. He began his sensational rise several years ago when he played the role of a German naval officer in Hobart Bosworth's "Behind the Door."

The giant blonde, who stands six feet one and weighs 235 pounds, is now playing at the Lyceum.

Jazz Fails to Charm Dwellers In Florida

Don't wake me up, let me dream, On what a won-der-ful dream.
Coral Gables Orchestra
Leader Says it Doesn't
Suit Climate

Miami, Florida.—All forty-seven of the other states in the Union may like jazz, but Florida doesn't.

John Hemp, leader of the Kentucky Serenaders orchestra at the Miami Biltmore Hotel, Coral Gables, doesn't think it ever will.

"Jazz doesn't suit our climate," he points out. "What Floridians like are the sleepy, dreamy tunes that go with our soft air, waving palm trees and romantic sunsets."

"I do not speak without authority for I've tested my theory over and over again. The lovely, delicate music of 'Don't Wake Me Up, Let Me Dream' is just about fifty times as popular as some jazzy tune that goes big up north."

"It is the same way with architecture. The Spanish type fits in with the landscape and so everybody has that kind. Even the outlander feels the influence, languorous and soothing, of a Florida winter."

"I have a hunch that the Latinizing of music will have a great effect on American composers, since many of them spend several months every year with us during the cold season up north."
